Help for any question in the technical universe.

It's taken a long time. Three years to be precise. But now that it's happened it makes all the waiting seem more than worthwhile. I refer of course to the sudden rush of excellent Amiga games. You will notice more and more Amiga games in CU — they are just too good to ignore. This month we bring you the first reviews of Western Games and Garrison. I believe that the quality of these games speaks for themselves and ends the debate over what is the better machine the ST or the Amiga. CU will not be sitting on the 16 bit fence, we will be supporting the Amiga as we feel this is clearly the best machine. But don't let all this talk of Amigas give you the impression that 64 owners are going to lose out in any way. We have stacks in store for you including another two great free gifts on the front cover of Jan and Feb's issues. You are holding the best value in gamesdom — 163 pages plus a 24 page supplement for a pound. I ask you does any other magazine come close?

RASTAN SAGA

PHWTHWAACCCCKKKK! Is it the Big Ed finally losing the last of his marbles and dropping his type writer from the fifteenth-floor of his luxury penthouse window? Or Mike Partenden exacting swift and terrible retribution from an unfortunate contributor who's just split his last infinitive? No, it's Rastan Saga cutting a swath through the forest of naff software which will be cluttering up the shop shelves over the coming weeks. When we had the coin-op in our office a month or two back it had to be locked away to keep the staff off it. The Ocean conversion of this brilliant sword-fighting game should be hitting the streets before Christmas, so don't say we didn't warn you.

OUT RUN

Here it comes! The most hyped drivealong of all time! The conversion of the millenium! Yes, it's Out Run, screeching to a halt outside your local softshop just in time for the Spend, Spend, Spend season. No, you won't be getting a seven-foot-long hydraulic console, but the original's hippy-dippy soundtrack will be included in the package on a separate audio tape for you to play on your stereo while cruisin' along in your automobile. Converted from the year's most popular coin-op and benefitting from all the publicity and column inches that software giants US Gold can generate, Out Run has to be the surest tip for Christmas No.1 there's been for yonks. The bills start ringing on December 10th.

RAMPAGE

Phew! After all those press releases full of bump! about superaquamarine magawacko jets, fiendish plots to take over the world using germ bombs and everything you never wanted to know about the internal combustion engine, its quite a relief to be able to write about an unpretentious, simple-minded game. In Rampage, you play a monster who, for absolutely no reason whatsoever, decides to demolish entire cities building by building, and has no objection to eating a few soldiers while he's at it. There are even a couple of other monsters who can be challenged and beaten to a pulp. Yes, this Activision conversion of the arcade classic will appeal to anybody who's partial to the occasional hefty dollop of utterly mindless violence and destruction.

JACK THE RIPPER

In 1888 there was a series of grisly murders in the Whitechapel area of London. All the victims were prostitutes and all were disfigured in a manner that suggested that the killer had had professional experience of using surgical implements. Rumours as to the identity of the murderer were numerous - one held that "Jack" was in fact in some way connected to the Royal Family - but the crimes were never solved. Now, on the centenary of the atrocities, we're releasing Jack The Ripper, programmed by a mysterious duo of women known collectively as 51 Brides, in which you play a wrongly accused suspect who sets out searching for clues as to the identity of the true killer in order to clear his name. The graphics are, as you can see, suitably grisly, and no doubt CRL, fresh from their success at having Frankenstein X-rated by the Censorship Board, will be attempting to achieve the same money-earning notoriety with this bloodcurdling little program.

MASTERS OF THE UNIVERSE

"Masters of the Universe?" We hear you cry incredulously, "surely that's ages old, why we seem to remember a CU front cover on it way back in February..." No, no, you fools, not the hoary old US Gold game based on the TV series of the comic of the toys but Gremlin's brand spanking newie based on the forthcoming Masters of the Universe Film due out just before Christmas. Shrewdly timed to coincide with its silver screen counterpart's arrival, MOTU finds you, He-Man, and your faithful friends Gwildor, Teela and Man-At-Arms attempting to find the eight pieces that make up the Cosmic Key. You'll have to take on certain dangerous missions to get some of the pieces, but there's no alternative only with the full key can you get to challenge the supreme nasty Skeletor, and only when he's been vanquished will the gentle Sorceress of Gray Skull Castle be released, thereby enabling everybody to live happily ever after.

MARS COPS

It's 2029, and you are a Mars Cop, one of the crack team whose primary duty is to protect the growing colony of scientists and engineers on the Red Planet. Of late hostile alien spaceships have been getting a little too close for comfort and now you've been ordered into your trusty starfighter to chase and destroy these pesky extraterrestrial intruders. You must pursue the enemy one at a time, and your armaments will have to be very carefully used if your mission is to be successful. Although you've got a lazer which can be used to blast the meteorites that come between you and your prey, it won't destroy the aliens themselves, but merely temporarily stun them. Nope, what you've got to use in order to dis them greenies is one deadly rocket. Waste it, and your foe escapes. Either way, you'll still have to make your way home, through hazardous dust storms and various other natural obstacles to be found in the region. Mars Cops, by Arcana Software for the Amiga, is due for release any minute now.

TEST DRIVE

Life is not fair. There you are, probably the most suave sophisticated and impossibly sexy young person in the civilized world. But who gets to drive the neighbourhood's only Ferrari Testarossa? Nigel Montmorency-Dingbatt, the ageing and utterly charmless chartered accountant. That's who, while you, owing to the small matter of having to survive on thirteen pence a week, are condemned to the squalor and indignity of the number 47 bus. But grieve no more! For those egalitarian-minded folk at Electronics Arts have decided that everybody should be able to experience the thrill of driving a really swish motor (well, everybody who owns a G4 or an Amiga anyway). Test Drive is a sim which slings you into the luxurious seats of such fab machines as the Testarossa and the Lamborghini Countach, negotiating sections of road within both the given time limit and the Road Traffic Acts. So now maybe you won't have to start the revolution after all...

PLATOON

Based on the harrowing and critically-acclaimed movie about the realities of war in Vietnam for soldiers in the field, Ocean's Platoon promises to be more than yet common-or-garden blast-or-be-blasted. You are in control of a platoon of five men, working your way through a bewildering maze of jungle tracks and underground tunnels, searching hostile villages, bunkers and the oppressive tropical terrain. The object of your search is the renegade Sergeant Barnes, a former platoon member gone bad. Needless to say, you encounter a host of snipers and cunningly hidden guerillas en route. Without quick reactions and a good sense of direction you're not going to make it through to the sixth level and your quarry. January will see Platoon's release on the G4.

Bono in computer game shock?

It can't be true! Surely the world's most famous Irishman hasn't interrupted his fab beat combo Yew Top's universe tour to star in a humble computer game? No, we couldn't believe it either when we received Superior Software's release: "Bono", it began, "an enterprising little dragon, had opened a bath house for the monsters who lurk in the stagnant waters of the deepest parts of the sea." Well, we mean to say, that's not cricket! Imagine calling the world's most tremendously talented human being "an enterprising little dragon", especially when he's taken time off from being one of the megalomaniacal creators of "The Banyan Tree" or whatever it's called to appear in your new game. And what's this about him going everywhere with his faithful friend and ally, Fozzy?!?!? I mean, we know Adam's quite woolly and not so bright but he's quite easily distinguishable from the Muppet Show Bear! And what do you mean by calling the game "Bonecruncher"??? Is this supposed to be some kind of sick joke??? Well, scandalous, that's what we'd call it. . .oh?

What's that? It's not really anything to do with U2? And the fact that the main character is called Bono is merely a weird "coincidence"? But what are we going to do with this brand new copy of their spanking new "official" autobiography "The Unforgettable Fire" which has just fallen into our hands? (Why don't you just give it to the first reader who can tell you Bono's real name and give the next five each a copy of the game and then maybe everybody'll stop prattling on about U2 around here and we can get some work done—Ed! Oh, July good. Postcards please to Unforgettable Compo, Commodore User, Priory Court, 30-32 Farringdon Lane, London EC1R 3AU, to arrive no later than December 31st

Deluxe paintings

Vermeer, due out on Reaktor any day now, is certainly rather different to most other 64 products you're likely to see in your pre-Christmas shopping expeditions. Nope, there's no galactic warfare, hand-to-hand combat or martial arts here and it doesn't even seem to have so much as a sniff of a platform about it. Vermeer, you see, is chiefly concerned with the buying and selling of aged paintings. It seems that millionaire art magnate Sir Oliver Burroughs has had his entire, nearly-priceless collection pinched. The reason we say "nearly" is that your mission is, amongst other things, to buy back all the paintings in the collection — when you can find them, and more importantly, afford them. For poor old Burroughs, stricken with grief, has stood down from the leadership of his corporation, and you compete with up to three other players to be the one to take it over. You achieve this by doing all sorts of daring international trading deals, thereby generating plenty of dosh which you then spend stocking up the depleted Burroughs gallery. Every so often you'll get a chance to buy back one of the stolen paintings which has come back on the market, but beware — there are plenty of forgeries out there and the wrong decision could cost you a lot of dosh, and the game. With dozens of deals, steady and otherwise, to be done, Vermeer should teach you a thing or two about the world of high finance. And with lotsa genuine old masters to be learnt about and acquired, who says you don't get nodules of kulture on your trusty 64?

Virgin buys into Mastertronic

The software diversion of "Rich" Dicky Branson's empire has just announced their acquisition of 45% of top-selling budget software house Mastertronic. Apparently the shares were previously held by "sleeping shareholders".

"The decision was made to change that situation" explained Mastertronic's Jeff Heath, "and that shareholding has been taken up by Virgin. Virgin haven't taken us over or anything like that — the majority shareholders still control the company." Nevertheless Virgin Publishing will now have two members on the board of directors including their Managing Director Nick Alexander, which will undoubtedly give them a great deal of influence over company decisions.

There are, according to Heath, no current plans to combine the output of Mastertronic and Virgin's own label, but Heath did allow that "obviously in the course of time we may be looking at things like duplication, distribution and printing."

BUZZ

Rob out — Martin?

Music programmers Rob Hubbard and Martin Galway are set to swap musical roles with Hubbard going in-house and Galway turning freelance. Hubbard looks set to be joining up with the Electronic Arts team full-time, thereby leaving a yawning gap in the market for really good freelance software tunesmiths. While refusing to confirm that a final deal had been struck, EA's Mark Lewis told Buzz that Hubbard and themselves were currently "negotiating towards establishing a long term relationship" with one another. Meanwhile Galway, nephew of Irish whistlemaster James and in-house music maker for Ocean Software, is set to leave the company. Wily Martin, perhaps sensing that Rob might soon be vacating the prestigious centre-stage slot he's held for so long, has recently decided to go freelance, thereby leaving himself open to offers of work from desperate software houses looking for somebody to take Rob's place.

Martin is currently working on three different Ocean games — Rastan Saga, Combat School and Gryzor — which should keep him busy for some months to come, but with Electronic Arts likely to be keeping Rob jealously to themselves it looks like Martin may be finding himself very much in demand, which is good for him but could prove unlucky for his former employers.

BUZZ

Loricels launch: Top French software house Loricels have recently announced their intention to release their games in the UK, with distribution being handled by Elite. Their first product to hit Britain's shop shelves will be Grand Prix 500cc, a motor cycle racing game which should be available early next year.

Defender taped: Mirrosoft have just released the Amiga and C64 hit Defender Of The Crown on tape. As the game originates in the US of A where everybody is lucky enough to own a disc drive, the initial release was only for disk, but Mirrosoft have recently managed to cram this very large game onto two cassettes — no means feat, they assume us — who will retail for the princely sum of £12.95.

Driller due: Incentive's much-hyped Driller looks set for release in January. This space-mission game features a new "solid three dimensional environment simulator" called Freescape which apparently provides amazing 3-D solid graphics, as opposed to the usual vector graphics with their "line drawing" effect. The game has eighteen sections which according to Incentive, can each allow for 20,000 billion screens. Phew!

T-Running: Also on the horizon for early 1986 is Nexus' T-Runner in which you play the intrepid Captain Skellery who, by some strange set of circumstances, finds himself being chased around a deserted Deep Space Maroon training course by fierce and virtually indestructible Power Balls.

Halo Jones snapped up by Piranha

Piranha Software have just signed the licence to produce a game based on The Ballad Of Halo Jones, the fab comic strip by Allan Moore. Halo Jones is the second 2000AD character to be signed up by Piranha — their Judge Death game should be hitting the streets any day now. Quite how Moore's masterful creation will transfer to the screens of the nation's 64s is uncertain. Halo Jones is an unusual strip in that its main character is a woman — and even more unusual in that she's neither a wimpy cutsie who giggles and faints her way through life, nor a Grace Jones eat-photon-death-sucker lookalike mutant. She's simply an ordinary young woman trapped in a huge artificial city called The Hoop somewhere in the dim and distant future, a place and time by turns brutal and dreary, horrifying and humdrum. The Ballad Of Halo Jones is the story of her day to day struggle to survive and her eternal desire to leave.

Well Amiga you have read a number of scoop Amiga reviews in CU and now we are pleased to announce another first — the first Amiga Games Top Ten.

Courtesy of Gallup the Top Ten features a number of games recommended already in CU. The top slot goes to Impact from Audiogenic — an Arkanoid style game. This demonstrates Amiga owners hunger for good coin-ops to play on their wonder machines. And who can blame them — so far being starved on a diet of strategy and adventure.

The 64 chart is again dominated by budget titles — with Firebird's Arcade Classics claiming the number one slot. Lets hope the game charts are not going the same way as the pop ones — with nostalgia rules being the watch word for all new releases. I mean a few games of Invaders for old time sake is all very well but just how far are the software boys going to take this? I don't fancy going back to those bat and ball games that you used to get free with your latest 22 inch from Rediffusion.

US Gold

Price:
£14.99/cass
£9.99/disk

The inlay to Rygar is pretty abysmal stuff: "4.5 billion years have passed since the earth's creation. Many dominators have ruled in all their glory. But Time, their greatest enemy, ultimately defeated their reign. And now a new Dominator's reign begins..."

Yes, it's appalling puff, isn't it. Still, look on the bright side—you've only got to read this review once, whereas if you are unlucky enough to become the owner of a copy of Rygar you'll have to sit through the computer laboriously typing out this nonsense after each lost game before it'll consent to let you have another go.

No, Rygar certainly isn't a game to play or review with a hangover. It's a conversion of a pretty average coin-op in which you play some otherworldly hero who plods through life zapping everything that comes his way.

You start off with five lives, and a generous time limit on each level. The graphics are small and mean, rendering any positive identification of your enemies impossible, but they seem to be a selection of hooded monks, hermit crabs, Catherine wheels, warrior-bearing gryphons and translucent desert rats.

You've got to run or bounce through the scene zapping nasties (your weapon, whatever it is, only has a very short range so you don't get to kill them until they're at close quarters), jumping over obstacles and ravines, picking up extra icons which are left when you zap certain rocks (these give extra time or smart bomb everything on screen), crouching low to catch the crawlers and leaping high to get the airborne meemies.

The colour scheme, the lack of graphic quality and the speed and smallness of the sprites all combine to make this a frustrating and difficult game to negotiate. Often you're not really sure why you've lost a life or at whose hands.

Even worse is the joystick control—whether or not you manage to make it over the ravines seems to be more or less a matter of luck, and I certainly wound up losing at least one or two of my lives per go when, despite feverish jerking of the stick in vain attempts at lift-off, my character lazily descended into the pit in front of him.

At the end of each level you have a brief breather while your scores and time bonuses are totted up, then it's out once more into the next scene. The different levels aren't really all that different, with most of the obstacles and enemies repeated with minor variations.

When you lose your fifth and final life your onscreen character's body is plucked from the ground and carried off by what bears a passing resemblance to a winged lion. At least, most of the time: on the third level, however, I noticed that my corpse floated off of its own accord while at the other side of the screen the flying feline hovered, obviously wondering why his prey had left without him.

If Rygar sold for £1.99, it would be a poor piece of budget software by today's standards. To release it as a full-price top-of-the-range coin-op conversion is just a bad joke. If this is US Gold's idea of a strong pre-Christmas release, they'd better think again.

SKATE OR DIE

Electronic Arts
 Price: £14.95/disk
 £9.95/ cassette

Exit Rodney's shop and choose an event.

Battered in a drained pool.

Skate Or Die is Electronic Art's contribution to the Great Skateboarding Revival (founder: M. Pattenden & Assocs.) and, with some reservations, it's a worthwhile addition to the small but growing number of skateboarding sims available.

There are five events to try your skills at, but first you've got to register with Rodney, the gruff and aged punk proprietor of the skateshop. Once you've entered your name in the registration form you get to choose from quite a wide range of board colours, then it's down to the most important choice — practice or compete.

The reason I say this is an important choice is that SGD has one very irritating feature: each event has a lengthy pause to be endured during loading. If you choose "compete", once you've finished an event you can't go straight back to try it again without sitting about twiddling your thumbs for about three minutes (and I was playing with the disk version — what it'll be like for you unfortunate cassette-loaders I shudder to think).

So for maximum enjoyment, at least until you've become reasonably skilful at the game, go for "practice". Now you'll find yourself outside the Skateshop, with the different events represented, 720°-style, by different streets to be taken.

Freestyle is more or less the same as California Games' "half-pipe" event — you get points for various tricks attempted while barralling around the inside of an enormous U-shaped bowl. There are two "Pump Zones" in the floor and pressing the trigger on your joystick while you're moving through these enables you to attempt certain tricks. This event is really quite good crack, though you'll have to go through a considerable amount of trial-and-error if you want to be able to do every possible stunt without going through the tiresome process of reading the instructions (any git — Ed). Even after I'd read the instructions I found some of the more spectacular tricks still eluded me. "Try tweaking your serials by clicking in mid-air" the instructions suggested (Ooooh, sounds painful — Ed) and I did, but to no avail.

After all that concentration and timing, High Jump was a birrova doddle. The idea here is to see how high in the air you can go above the top rim of the half-pipe. Simply waggle your joystick like a maniac to gather impetus on your journey down from the opposite rim and see how you measure up against the graduated pole at the far side. Mad Mike P. had a shot at this and pronounced it "good fun" but after a few goes I must say that I found the challenge a wee bit too easy.

Downhill Race, on the other hand, is well 'ard, sending you careering

64/128
Ocean
Price: £9.95

£14.95
disk

Gimme some, gimme some PT, PT—that's what I need. And that's what Combat School gives you. A hefty dose of military disservice and Decathlon joystick waggling.

If 1967 is remembered for anything it will be for 'Namism. It was the year film producers rediscovered Vietnam war movies, right down to the soundtrack from one, 'Full Metal Jacket', becoming a hit record. Ocean, with typical guile, have ripped the tune off and struck it on the front of this conversion. Still everyone's stealing records these days.

If you've seen 'Full Metal Jacket' then you'll know what to expect in Combat School, because the Konami game is based on just that kind of gruelling physical preparation. The object is to qualify as a captain and go on to tackle a dangerous mission. Before you get that far you'll have to undergo a rigorous course of training to prepare you for battle. This takes the form of seven lung-bursting, sweat-inducing, back-breaking events. Stand by your joysticks!

The game kicks off with the Assault Course. In true 'Krypton Factor' style you're expected to complete it before the time runs out. You get a split screen here snabbling you to play against an opponent or the computer in a straight race. The course consists of a series of walls, some low enough to hurdle, others which have to be scrambled over. To finish the course you have to swing across a set of bars and leg it across the line. That entails thirty seconds of joystick waggling and hitting the fire button to clear the walls. This is no wrist buster though, and after a few goes I was giving the computer a head start.

Graphically the assault course is probably the best looking event in the whole game. The animation is slick and realistic, the backgrounds detailed and colourful.

Successfully completing the course will take you on to the first of the three Shooting Events. This is a machine gun test with your man lying prone and taking out a series of targets, thirty-five in all as they rise up randomly from a field. This is the event in the coin op where you get the tracker ball whizzing around so that the machine gun rakes through the targets. You can't do that here unless you have an autofire switch on your joystick. Instead you have to press fire on each one which can be a bit of a tricky business when you're trying to get the crosshair to scroll nicely through the targets.

When you do hit the targets they shatter realistically which makes up for the otherwise disappointing graphics on this section. Your machine gunner looks a bit like a stick insect, but I can live with that.

It's worth mentioning here that if you fail you go right back to the beginning, but if you only just miss out you get a chance to redeem yourself by doing several strenuous pull-ups in a set time. This entails some fairly furcous stick waggling, but there again it serves you right for being a nancy boy.

Event three is the Iron Man Race, another sort of assault course. Again you're up against the clock as you leg it, waggling the stick forwards this time, through a terrain covered in rocks and mines. Make it through these without falling arse over collarstud and you have a fast-flowing river to negotiate. There's a cance in the middle which you can clamber into to up your speed, but logs float downstream and if you don't avoid them you'll be tipped out again. One mistake here and you can run out of time.

The Iron Man test has to be the worst of the seven events graphically. There doesn't seem to have been much attention to detail and the terrain looks flat and messy. It's an easy event really as long as you don't fall, nevertheless I have to say it's my least favourite. The background graphics look as if the programmer split his coffee down the back of the computer here.

If you negotiate the Iron Man course you get another dose of shooting. This time it's strictly a duck shoot with the targets easily picked off. This time however, you have to hit fifty targets in thirty seconds which doesn't leave much leeway if you miss a couple.

Should you get the "you made it!" message you go on to the arm wrestling event which defeats me. That's not because I can't do it, it doesn't matter whether you win or lose at this piece of senseless waggling because you always go through to the final shooting stage. However don't take a breather here because you can get a much needed time bonus for the next stage.

The third and final firing range takes you back to target shooting in the field. This time however you can't blaze away wildly! The targets which pop up are always in the same spot but they are interspersed with red marine silhouettes which indicate that one isn't to be shot. That means you have to think before you fire, a problem that's made worse by the sticky joystick movement here which won't allow

▼ The final firing range — don't hit the silhouettes.

▼ The first firing range — you need thirty hits.

10 THINGS YOU NEVER KNEW ABOUT THE US MARINES

- 1) They were created in 1775
- 2) At their height in WWII the force numbered 450,000
- 3) In 1946 after demobilization there were less than 100,000
- 4) The commander of the Marines is a 4-star general
- 5) Black soldiers were only allowed to join in 1942
- 6) The marines are classed as 'amphibious support troops'
- 7) They are in fact a wing of the navy
- 8) Marines are big and ugly
- 9) Never tell a marine this to his face
- 10) Er, that's it originally thought this up they must have just seen the scene in 'Officer and a Gentleman' when Richard Gere punches it out with the sergeant. This scene is pure beat 'em up with you having to subdue the instructor within a set time limit. You have kicks and punches as per normal, but this guy is mean and experienced and will give you a really tough time of it.

Graduating gives you the chance at the Mission that concludes Combat School. This is a top secret assignment to rescue a hostage from an American Embassy. The instructions won't tell you much about the job you have to do, but they entail using all the skills you've acquired in training including the shooting, jumping and hand-to-hand combat. You won't need your arm-wrestling skills here, soldier.

That's Combat School, a possible ten different tests of skill and stamina that make it great value for any arcade gamer. Konami's game proved a surprise flop after the way it was so well received critically which made it look as if Doan had rushed in for a duff licence. However as a conversion it's just what companies should be looking at. Nothing here overstretches the computer and whilst the graphics in one or two places could have been improved the gameplay is varied and absorbing. I'd have liked to see some of the nice touches from the coin-op included like the odd line of speech or at least the message "Go home to your mother!"

Nevertheless this is a classy job and bears the unmistakable stamp of Dave Collier on it. Forget Duke Run this is the game for Christmas.

Mike Pattenden

up completely and you lose your chance that round. The firing range is one of the toughest events here and one that frequently trips me up. You need lightning quick reactions and the only way I can ever pass is by way of a lot of chin-ups for getting close. The final test is the fight with the drill instructor. When Konami

Cosmic Causeway

Regular readers (are there any other kind?) will know that I think Trailblazer was and is the best thing since spring onion flavour Hula Hoops. Cosmic Causeway is Trailblazer II, but right now I can't think of a packet of crisps that comes close. (what about Tortilla chips? Ed.)

If you've never heard of, or seen, Trailblazer here's the run-down; imagine first of all a formula one racing sim like Pole Position, but instead of running through tunnels, cities and forests the road is suspended in space. The cosmic causeway is not like any ordinary road. For one thing you don't drive along it in a car. You bounce along it with a checkered red and white ball. The road is full of holes. Not the kind you find on the M1 either. Disappear down these ones and you don't reappear for a good three or four seconds.

Holes are not the only disaster areas. Cosmic Causeway has no less than eight colour coded squares some of which it pays to land on, others to be avoided at all costs. Red squares for example slow you down to a snail's pace. As the object of the game is to reach the end of each section before running out of time it's as well to steer clear of the red squares. Keep out of the way of purple ones too, unless you want to go down the causeway backwards that is. Purple squares are a nightmare, if you're really unlucky you can end up hopping backwards for miles from one purple square to another. Equally unpleasant are the cyan squares which reverse the left/right on your joystick — makes you feel sick. It's not all bad news though. You can bounce over a lot of this nastiness just by pressing the fire button, but your timing will have to be good. Furthermore there are several kinds of square which will actually help you on your way. Green squares speed you up, though inevitably this just brings the encroaching doom that bit faster. Best of all are the blue squares which send you on a giant bounce enabling you to avoid all the nastiness below.

So, you get the picture. The ball goes flying down the causeway, bouncing when you press the fire buttons and going backwards, up, down, quick, slow or whatever depending on which square you hit. You've got to reach the end of the section before the clock runs out on you. There are 24 levels and 8 sections in each level. At the end of each section remaining time is added to your score as a bonus. There's similarity with Trailblazer and the real fun starts.

Trailblazer was a two player game and you could play a section whenever you fancied. These options have been sacrificed in Cosmic Causeway, but what's in their place more than makes up for them. The major difference is the appearance of a shimmering white disk on each section. If you manage to collide with a white disk you are awarded between one and three credits which you can spend on icon features. There are eight icons altogether which appear at the beginning of each section. Providing you have enough credits you can buy any of the icon features which increase in price according to their usefulness and last for one level only. Icon features range from the relatively cheap score "X3" at two credits to the expensive, but brilliant "roll over holes" (indispensable) and "lock retarder" at seven credits.

Another exciting departure from Trailblazer is the inclusion of the fire-breathing dragon on the last section of each level. The dragon looks remarkably like a truncated version of the monster from Space Harrier and must be destroyed before you can reach the end of the level. Other new monsters and obstacles have been introduced including aliens, trees, boulders and wells. You can fire on the aliens, dodge the trees and boulders like a manic downhill skier. The wells are a different problem. You could try going through the doors, but it's a risky business. I reckon the way to do it is for the "Turbo icon" feature — a snip at five credits — and go so fast you simply smash right through them. Sounds good doesn't it? Yet to be tried in practice though. Those discs are bloody difficult to get hold of.

What else? The sound is absolutely wonderful, turn the music off and turn the volume up full. Spend the whole of Christmas playing it. Stop only for food, sleep and any alcohol offered by drunken relatives.

FREDDY HARDEST

Imagine 64/128
Price: £9.95/cass

Freddy is everything a man wants to be, handsome confident, strong, brave, intelligent (well almost.) Not totally unlike myself, in fact. But unlike myself, even Freddy isn't totally perfect. He has one big problem, his swollen ego all too often tends to overrule his good sense. So you can imagine what happened when Freddy held one of his notorious rave ups, had too much to drink, and decided (against much protest) to go on a little whizz to the Milky Way in his ship. Foolish Freddy landed in a meteorite storm and attempted to beat his high score on Asteroids (only this time there were no three lives!)

Now on the planet Ternet Freddy discovers that he is near the alien base of Kaldar and must bludge some serious space-wheels and get the hell out of there if he is going to have any chance of survival.

Your job is to take the role of Freddy Hardest and to blast, kick and leap your way through the game's two levels. Two levels may not sound like much but if a god like Freddy needs your help it must be bloody difficult. The game is played on the planet's surface, Freddy must make it from left to right avoiding all aliens which cross his path. Well, he doesn't really have to avoid the aliens, he can always dispose of them if he pleases, either by karate kicking the ones that fly over his head, or blasting his laser in to the belly of the ones on ground level.

These unfortunately are not the only problems our hero will have to face on the first level of his quest, and they are not by any means the hardest either. Without doubt, of all Freddy's wondrous qualities (and he has many) is his ability to jump high in to the air. There are many craters full to the brim with bubbling acid that our handsome hero will have to leap over, unless of course he wants his rugged good looks spoilt.

Without doubt though the trickiest feature of the first level has to be the large gaps in the planet's surface, these are so wide that to cross them you must land on a moving platform and then leap off it to safety on the other side. Not easy!!

Part two is a far lot more complex than part one, which plays as a simple arcade game. To reach part two you must have the access code which you receive at the end of part one. Freddy's part one mission was to reach the enemy base. Now he has arrived there he must escape. But it's not that simple. There are three steps to be completed, first he must obtain the captain's code, then he must load the ship's energy, and finally, discover the instructions which will send him in to hyperspace and home again.

The second level looks extremely similar to V, although it isn't by any means a copy. The aliens from the first level are unfortunately still around though, and your laser has this nasty habit of running out. But luckily, on level two Freddy has mastered the skill of boxing, so if all else fails smash 'em in the gob!

The way to clear the second level is to collect the nuclear energy cells and then put them on to the special loading lifts. This is not too easy as the base is made up of three levels and finding your way out isn't too easy.

Freddy Hardest is not the most original game I've ever played, and probably not one of the most captivating either. Still, the first level is fairly addictive, in a certain strange way, but they should have made it longer and tougher instead of bothering to put a second rate arcade adventure on the other side. Graphically it isn't half as good as its Spectrum counterpart, and the sound is Spectrum simulated (Beep! Beep! Knowornimean?) Still if anyone feels like a little arcade fun, you could do worse.

Mirrorsoft

Price:
£9.95

The last Mirrorsoft game I was fortunate enough to look at was Defender of the Crown, I and kill anyone who dare to set tyre upon it. So dare you except the challenge. You do? Well then, mount your bike and go!

The game scrolls diagonally across the screen and is seen from raised view. Your Mean Streak cycle has the ability to speed up, and slow down (Wow! — Eek!). It can also fire rockets and shoot bullets, or slime a bit of oil in the path of anyone who would be very surprised if Mirrorsoft could possibly make this game as graphically beautiful and compelling as their brilliant Cinemaware conversion for the 64 but who knows?

Eddie Kidd became a model. Street Hawk took his last commercial break. Why? Because this, my gasoline guzzling friends is the 23rd Century, life is not lived outside of the home, people have learnt the brilliant, if rather unsociable art of molecular transportation, roads are now barren and unused.

This idealistically perfect society suits all but a group of rebels, this group have offered the grand prize of the ultimate motor-bike, the Mean Streak. To earn this majestic prize you must travel along all five levels of the infamous Battltrack, a ring road which is the perimeter of the capital city (Once the M25!) and return alive. Easy? No way, not with an evil bunch of suckers like the Outcasts who ride the Battltrack dare approach it from behind. The enemy Outcasts are also on motorbikes almost identical to yours in every way, but for the ability to fire rockets. Oh, and their bikas don't have the stunning chrome paint job either! Shooting up the outcasts isn't the only problem you're going to have to face either, not by a long way. There is obviously a craze in the 23rd Century that tells fashion-conscious people, that the trendiest thing anyone can do is throw litter on the Battltrack (either that or my family has been for a picnic along that way) because there is an amazingly large amount of debris littered along the floor which will damage your tyres, causing a blow out and a loss of one of your five lives. A tyre blow out, is just one of the many ways a rebel with a ridiculous cause can expect to meet his death. He could also run out of time, fuel, oil or maybe he could get shot ones too often!

Don't burst in to tease on me now though, there are ways of cushioning these blows.

You can pick up an extra oil, fuel, and rockets.

You are also awarded extra time for every outcast you shoot.

Graphically speaking, Mean Streak is rather nice actually, with silky smooth scrolling (a rare and precious thing these days!) and some very attractive sprites. Sound is also well done, and with the competition which gives you the chance to win a mountain bike (v. Trendy bikas with large handlebars and matching price tags) for the one who completes it first, why am I not revving about it you may wonder? Well, it is enjoyable but only for a fairly short time. It hasn't got that addictive punch that an arcade game needs and neither has it the complexity needed for an arcade adventure, so it's left there oscillating with an ego crisis. But if you're fairly well off and in need of a rather short-lived bit of fun, go on be a devil. Oh, and er... Mirrorsoft I'll gladly give you a screen star... if you'll send me a mountain bike.

For those of you who don't know about these things XOR is a machine code instruction which manipulates bits of data. If you think that's boring you'll have to agree that this game is aptly titled. XOR is like a cross between a three year old game called Boulderdash which involved a lot of falling rocks, and a prehistoric thing for the ZX81 called Mazogs. In other words it's a maze game with things that fall on your head. In their day Boulderdash and Mazogs were pretty good, but things have moved on a bit since then haven't they?

There are fifteen mazes in all which, although they are similar in rough layout and design, have various different properties. All fifteen of them are displayed on a menu bar and you can start with whichever one you want. My advice is to start with the first one and work your way down — they get progressively more difficult. On completion of each maze you are have to pick up four map segment icons which are located in different parts of the maze. Unfortunately there is no map showing you where the map segments are.

The remaining fourteen mazes are based on the first with various things introduced to complicate matters. The first of these is fish. Fish are to XOR what rocks are to Boulderdash. They perch on top of maze walls and if you bump into them they fall blocking your only exit. Later on, fish can be used to explode bombs and make new paths, but you have to be careful you don't blow yourself up with them. A variation on the theme is spring loaded chickens which shoot off to the right or left when any obstacle is removed from their path. In the later mazes things can get very complicated. Working out the end result of removing a mask stuck between half a ton of fish and a dozen or so chickens is a time consuming business and the 'try it and see' approach inevitably ends in disaster.

XOR can definitely be classed in the strategy/tactical bracket, a game for people who like to think for half an hour before making a move. But does it have to be this dull? The graphics are very ordinary and the only sound available is one of those awful pink plonk beep tones which sounded pathetic even five years given a letter. When you have all fifteen letters you are in possession of an encrypted clue to XOR's true nature. You can send this off to Logotron for a certificate and badge declaring you a member of the Order of XOR. I can hardly wait.

The first maze is called dots and waves, which might have something to do with the two different kinds of force field barring some of the routes. You have control of two shields, one depicting a lion, the other with a chevron. Control is switched from one to the other by pressing the fire button. In this first maze there are 47 masks and you must collect the whole lot within a specified number of moves before leaving by the door and collecting a letter of the code. That's all there is to it.

Unusually, there are no spooks to chase you around, no sneaky traps, no keys to find. All that stands between you and the masks are these force fields. The dotty ones can be passed through horizontally and the wavy lines disappear if you travel vertically through them. The only problem arises if you need to go up or down through a dotty force field or sideways through a wavy one, in which case you'll have to find another route.

The map will help you find your way around, but to get all of it you ago. The best thing that I can find to say about it is that it's 'O.K.', but nothing special. My mate Malcolm liked it, but then he's from Newcastle and wears a bright yellow waterproof.

Jack the Nipper 2 COCONUT CAPERS

Jack is back pumping up the needle on the Naughtymeter.

Gremlin had a surprise success a year or so back with a naughty number called Jack the Nipper, can the sequel possibly kick up as much fun as the first game?

For those of you who didn't take my trusty guidance and buy the first game (it was awarded a screen star) our hero, Jack, well he's a nipper, but what a naughty little nipper he is. In his first taste of stardom, did he try and save the human race? Did he try and rescue a damsel in distress? No, not on your life, he spent all his time running around his home town causing as much mischief as possible, be it by injuring the residents with his pea-shooter or short circuiting the computers in the local sprocket shop.

Well, obviously the antics of this not-so-lovable brat did not amuse the townsfolk a great deal, and it wasn't too long before Jack was evicted and sentenced to life with kangaroos, koalas, and Paul Hogan (Yuk!)

As you can guess there was no way our hell-raising hero was going to stand for that, so while on the Australia-bound plane he leapt out over an unknown wilderness, using his over-sized nappy as a parachute. Now you control Jack on his ventures in the unknown jungle and try to cause as much mischief as possible without getting caught by Mummy and Daddy and getting a botzy-spanking!

The game is set over a much larger area than its predecessor, which was only around ten screens or so. It is also much more of an orthodox 'pick up/drop/shoot/jump' arcade adventure than the rather brilliantly abstract original game. The main part of playing the game is really based on surviving the jungle horrors such as the hostile tribesmen, or the nipper-eating plants, rather than causing major mischief to residents. Jack can however pick up weapons, bouncing coconuts are among those found, these can give anyone a real headache, or choose the blowpipe. There are also bombs which can cause major hassle if let off in the right place.

However, the best mischief is not to be had through blasting things. As in the first game there are many plain looking objects lying around that can be turned to good use. You can hold any two objects at one time, should you be holding a 'correct' pair in the right place then you will be the catalyst to some serious wacky happenings. The objective is to boost your naughty-o-meter until you are a real mean mother instead of the little wimp you originally start out as. The way to boost the meter is to do some real nasty deviant tricks not simply lob a few coconuts around.

(Gremlin will send you 'a guide to good mischief' if you ask nicely!)

As you begin to find your way around the vast jungle you will encounter various problems such as alligator-infested swamps, and even the odd troublesome tourist (cameras, check trousers and all!)

Just because he wears nappies doesn't mean he can't cause havoc — he can.

You will also encounter many things to your aid, invincibility potions, and extra lives (even the nine you are given aren't enough). One of the most important things to get you around in the jungle are the "Beam me up, Kelly" transporters — although they can't be seen so you'll have to find them by the systematic approach of trial and error.

Jaque le Nipperie as he is commonly known in France, was one of last year's most colourful characters but he's definitely lost some of his 'street cred' with this.

With many sequels all you seem to end up with is a mixed and diluted version of the original, this sadly is the fate of Coconut Capers. It simply doesn't have the spunk of the original.

Witty gameplay has been foreseen for a more conservative, mediocre approach. Graphics are well done, with many nice touches (Jack gives you a V-sign if you pause for too long!) Sound, too is good. But as goes the old saying "Too many screens spoil the best." (Eh? Ed.)

BUGGY BOY

Elite
Price:
£9.95 cass
£14.95 disk

Yipes! another arcade conversion. But this is no recent mega licence, in fact it harks back to mid '85. Buggy Boy was a great game at the time though, helped along by its three screens giving a really wide-angled view of oncoming traffic, fences, trees, rocks and so forth. Buggy Boy nowadays strikes me as being the forerunner more than anything else of Out Run.

There are four courses and one practice track. Each one apart from the practice track is divided into stages, for which you are given seventy-five seconds to zip through in your dune buggy, which has a cute way of bouncing around the track as you accelerate. Sadly where Elite have tried to fit the three lanes onto one screen the graphics have been noticeably shrunk down to accommodate the compression down to a single screen for the computer version.

None of the features have been lost in the transference from the arcade version though. You have excellent features like footballs which can be rimmed out of the way for bonus points, jump pads which do just that and leave you realistically bouncing out of control after landing, and ramps which, when ridden over, tilt the buggy onto two of its side wheels (it steers like that providing the vehicle is not steered to much.) Speaking of steering, the Japanese would be interested in the design for this buggy, the road handling is so good no matter how tight the bend if you just let go of the joystick it will steer itself through the trouble spot (gripe, gripe, sorry Elite).

Some nice effects have been included in the game though, great touches like tunnels and bridges have been faithfully reproduced. The tracks are well designed too, with jump pads conveniently placed so that if used, there is no way you're gonna reach that five-hundred point gate just coming up on the horizon. And there's flags as well, sadly they mostly seem to cover large rocks. Large buggy-crunching rocks.

You either like conversions or you don't. And because of the complexity of arcade machines nowadays it is increasingly harder to 'downgrade' onto the conventional eight-bit micro. But Elite have come up with a little gem here. The graphics are very well designed with one or two little faults here and there, such as glitches and wobbly rocks.

The sound is adequate but still confined to being the same old droning noise which seems to rear it's very ugly head in absolutely every single car/race game I have ever played. Could I recommend an ancient two gear buggy with a top speed of two-hundred and twenty miles an hour slick scrolling and high addictiveness? Of course! Initially it takes a wee bit of getting into, but afterwards I'm sure you'll have no regrets at purchasing this game.

I hope Buggy Boy will set an example to other companies and they will forget about major TV/Film tie-ins and hydraulic mega arcade machines and get on with converting the arcade classics that have previously been overlooked. Buggy Boy is good, probably one of the most accurate conversions to date. If you're a fan it's a must, if you're not, it's a must.

PASSENGERS ON THE WIND 2

Remember Passengers on the Wind, reviewed in August? This was the game that, according to its excitable publishers Infograms, promised 'a software revolution, the revolution of the film in which you are the hero'. Marvel at the 'exceptional quality graphics' they commanded, 'live moments of poetry and wonder.'

The trouble was, although the graphics were indeed impressive, the rest of the game wasn't. Tedious gameplay, an incomprehensible plot full of anonymous characters, peculiar dialogue translated from idiomatic French — all combined to produce the software equivalent of the sub-titled movies that Channel 4 puts out when no-one's watching.

Just about the only things which stopped the game disappearing like a pebble in a bucket of merde was an astonishing high nipple-count and a short-lived moment of glory in the News on Sunday. Well, this hasn't deterred the indefatigable French, who went right on and brought out the sequel, ingeniously titled Passengers on the Wind 2. Like part one, it's based on Francois Bourgoign's comic strip 'mestepiece', and is the continuing story of Isabelle, an 18th century noblewoman, and her attempts to regain her lost title and riches.

The screen format and gameplay remain the same, with a large graphics screen which displays the scenery of each location, onto which are overlaid comic strip frames when the action heats up. Below this is the portrait window, used for selecting the characters you wish to control, and the text window which reveals their thoughts and speech. Selection of icons is by joystick or keyboard-controlled cursor, and often entails unnecessary precision particularly at the start of each episode, where you must embark on a frustrating search across the landscape to find the single pixel which unlocks the action.

Six of the seven episodes take place in West African slave colonies, and the plot, less sprawling than that of part one, has our heroine taking part in archery contests and bloody woodoo ceremonies, trekking across the 'lon-infested savannah, and generally dispensing wit, repartee and a few philosophical thoughts about slavery. And there's a bit of animated snogging, baby snatching and duelling for good measure.

To complete the story you must get all the characters speaking in the correct sequence, and saying and doing the right things. But no duties are given to help you, so your choice is often arbitrary. Should Aisan or Ise shoot the lion? Is Hoel well enough to go to Franco or not? Does Ise get some shut-eye or go skinny-dipping in the river instead?

Just to make things entirely impossible, some active ingredients have been hidden in the pictures, so that in episode two, for instance, you have to pass the cursor over the grubby neck of the ancient mariner. There's no earthly reason why you should even think of doing this, but if you don't then Jaemin starts groping Aihosi, Ise misses out on some juju action in episode four, and Hoel snuffs it in episode five.

To add to the confusion, each episode concludes with a wise man popping up from nowhere and asking questions reminiscent of school exam papers, and which are supposed to help you on your way: 'In this story, which bird is the symbol of honour? To which Ise replies, 'A guinea fowl, I suppose can also be found in Asia.' What?!

While some recognition should go to Infograms for taking software into unexplored territory, all they've produced is at best an interesting but unsuccessful experiment, and at worst a muddled travesty of a comic strip of entertainment value. Whatsoever. I can't possibly think of who might want to buy it: owners of Passengers Full of Wind 1 will obviously stay well clear, and no-one else will have the slightest idea of what is going on.

It's not that ice hockey is essentially a bastardised version of soccer on ice, with a puck instead of a ball. The puck isn't kicked — it's manipulated with a stick. (And GP's a post — and didn't even know it, Ed.)

In Superstar Ice Hockey the opposition can be controlled by fish or microchip, or a combination of both. With the exception of the coaches, centres (sic) and goalies, International Soccer, and subsequently playability is further marred by the fact that the screen follows the progress of the puck, not that of your player. Worse still, the centre is slow to respond to joystick input and movement is inertial — which means that the skater takes an excruciatingly long time to turn.

Rules and strategies, for example, are far easier to relate to and execute in a real game of hockey than in a joystick controlled simulation. And anyway, using a joystick to choose a strategy from a limited selection is hardly realistic.

There just isn't enough playability in Superstar Ice Hockey to make it entertaining, and the lack of atmosphere and rewarding strategy is poor compensation for anyone

SUPERSTAR

★ ICE HOCKEY

Ice hockey can hardly be classed as one of Britain's most popular spectator sports, which probably explains why there have been so few home computer interpretations of the game. Anirag's (now Ancol) Slapshot is the only other game of this type that springs to mind.

Superstar Ice Hockey is billed as the first complete ice hockey emulation, which basically means that the designers have attempted to capture all the thrills and spills of a 'real' ice hockey league by incorporating as many rules and play strategies as possible.

There seems little point relating the rules to the uninitiated — suffice the computer always synchronises the team's actions. Alternatively you can leave the computer to control the centre or goalie, or to make the coach's decisions regarding simplistic offensive and defensive strategies.

A human player can control two of the three variables — but not the centre and the goalie together. Being able to control only one player out of the whole team is one of Superstar Ice Hockey's most annoying flaws. Control is never transferred to other team members, as in, say, Andrew Spencer's

While this may arguably be deemed realistic, it's far from conducive to a playable environment. When it boils down to it, there's little point in attempting to make any computer simulation so realistic, as reality is full of many tedious, mundane actions which we perform instinctively. And when you're trying to relax and enjoy yourself playing a computer game, you don't want to have to actually think about something you would otherwise take for granted.

Interested in ice hockey? Designer Ed Ringler ought to take a leaf out of Andrew Spencer's book. International Soccer is a prime example of how to capture the flavour of a sport in a computer game — the emphasis is on atmosphere and playability, not accuracy.

MAD BALLS

When a software company like Ocean pays good money for the licence to a load of rubber balls, then things are surely getting desperate.

The balls in question are Mad, and they're not really balls so much as disembodied heads, with protruding tongues, bulging red-veined eyes, horns, warts, scars and fangs.

They've got cheerful names like Stobulus and Swine Sucker, and appear occasionally on children's TV when the adults are safely out of the way. A spokesperson for Ocean described them as 'pretty gross'.

On the computer screen, however, they're about as stomach-churning as Bobby Bearing with a hare-lip. They inhabit a world of pavements, dustbins, and gym equipment known as the planet Orb, and they spend most of their meaningful lives trying to bounce each other off the walkways and into the net which is suspended below.

Fortunately for everyone concerned, the programmers who've been given the thankless task of somehow making a game out of all this are Denton Design. They've succeeded in producing something that is so well presented and playable that you almost forget how stupid the whole thing is.

For starters, the Dentons have opted for a novel overhead view of the action, so that instead of watching the balls bounce along from the side, what you see are balls which get bigger as they bounce high, and smaller as they fall back to earth.

This is a bit weird at first, and after an hour or two it can do strange things to your eyes, but overall it works very well, and the effect can be quite startling, especially when a ball zooms off a trampoline for an extra high bounce.

Once you've orientated yourself, you can get down to the serious business of mugging other balls and exploring the tricky terrain. To begin with you're controlling one particular Mad Ball called Dust Brain, who sets out to find the seven other Mad Balls, and recruit them into his gang by knocking them into the goal nets.

The maze of paved paths is riddled with holes and chasms, and there are dustbins, pyramids, catapults, springboards, rubber tyres and eggs to bounce over or on to, all accompanied by suitable sound effects. Bouncing over this obstacle course would be bad enough unmoleted, but as it is, your progress is usually hindered by unfriendly balls trying to spin you off the path.

Get extra lift from trampoline.

You'll soon discover that most of the attacking balls aren't Mad at all, but featureless balls called 'bunsuetate'. Bouncing them into goal scores a few brownie points but otherwise doesn't get you very far. Every time you mug a genuine Mad environment and the scattered food supplies. So Dust Brain can be exchanged for another by dropping him down an open dustbin lid, and the limy chick which scampers around frenetically, just after you've released it from its egg, and just before you stomp on it. Keyboard and joystick control is responsive and realistic, simulating very well the unpredictable rebounds and bounces.

I can't remember the last time I had so much fun bouncing severed heads in and out of dustbins.

5.25" DISC DISPLAY / WORK FOLDER

This product has been specifically designed for use with HEATSEAL DISK LABELING SYSTEMS, although it can be put to many other good uses such in the home and office. Each folder opens out to reveal two rows of DISSEPARABLE disc sleeves, 12 in total. These are carefully positioned to allow the top 20mm of each disc to be visible, thus aiding the easy identification of labels without having to touch your expensive (and wear) plastic storage boxes. Folders measure 300 x 180 mm (way through plastic storage boxes, a normal A4 folder), and are attractively printed (the same height as a normal A4 folder), and are attractively finished in red with a padded hardside cover. Extra disc labels are also supplied and each folder is pre completed with its own plastic dust cover. Folders cost £5.99 each inc. P&P. Chapman/Postal Orders 16 1/2

GET ON DOWN!

To celebrate the impending release of their game based on Tom Clancy's best selling story of a defecting Russian submarine THE HUNT FOR RED OCTOBER, Argus Software have come up with a unique and awesomely brilliant prize for just one lucky young person drawn from the assembled readerships of Commodore User, Sinclair User and Computer & Video Games: how would you like to spend a day on a Royal Navy Oberon Class Submarine? Operating out of Gosport, the home of the 1st Submarine Squadron, these craft are 300 feet in length, carry 24 torpedoes, do between 12 and 17 knots (depending on whether they're above or below water), carry a total crew of 69, and have a range of 9000 miles. The winner will get to travel on one of these sub-aquatic marvels and the next twenty CU readers will be consoled for their near-miss with a copy of THE HUNT FOR RED OCTOBER (for Amiga or C64). To be in with a chance, answer these three submarine questions — first correct entry out of Lord Emap's tumble drier wins.

1. Where and what is Reykjavik Ridge?
2. What does COMSUBLANT stand for?
3. How many periscopes are fitted in the Royal Navy's conventional submarines?

Entries to: Red October Competition, Commodore User, Priority Court, 30-32 Farringdon Lane, London EC1R 3AH. And remember to state whether you'd like an Amiga or a C64 version of THE HUNT FOR RED OCTOBER.

BEAT IT

Now I've played games from Mastertronic and some of them are great, and some of them are chronic, and some of them are junk and some of them are jiva, and some must've been written by a child of five.

But now listen to me and what I'm rappin'. This little number's gonna get your footsies tappin'. It's a musical maze arcade game and it's called Beat It! And if I ain't wrong it's gonna be a hit.

The aim of the game is short and it's simple (and could've been written on the head of a pimple) rockin' Rodney and Rachel are right little ravers and you gotta help them to pick up all the quavers 'cause at the start of each screen you hear a drum machine and a poundin' bass riff—if you catch my drift—but this background beat ain't too hot 'n' funky so you gotta add some notes to make it REAL funky. There are 16 notes in each psychedelic maze of shifting paths and patterns going every which ways and every note you grab gets added to the beat 'til the song gets stronger and the boogie gets neat. Now if this was all then the game would be naff but there are various meanies hoppin' up on each path. Hit a few bum notes and your tune will start to go like a three-note solo from Status Quo.

There are gloom masks and coppers who turn your volume down and bombs, frogs, and Angries who blow you outta town. If you run into a fuzz box your tune will be distorted and don't mess with Norm or Maggie or your plans will be thwarted. Now if you finish Level One you've got no time for ravin' 'cause there's another 99, and I ain't jestin'.

And some you'll find a dodgie, and on some you'll wind up dead and Level 42's real boring [well what do you expect? Ed.] So pin back your shall-likes and listen to this rap, Beat It! is really something—it ain't no pile of crap.

The animation's cool, and the graphics are really neat and for all you wimps out there it's got an infinite lives cheat. You can't play it with the keyboard but you can play it with a stick you can play it until those groovy colours nearly make you sick. You can play it all night and you can really have a ball you can play it 'til that disco beat drives you up the wall. 'Cause if there's a one thing wrong with this fun 'n' funky game it's those bloody boogie rhythms gain' round and round your brain.

KRON

Mastertronic's game-naming team must have worked overtime on this one. Kromaxone is an above average name for a game, but not quite in the Twilight Zone league. Like most Master T games these days, it features a naff little game to play whilst the main game is loading, complete with Rob Hubbard tunes. My, how things have advanced. I remember when flickering loading screens were state-of-the-art (you old git—Ed).

Kromaxone, as you already know, is the most feared testing ground of the Tarran Space Fleet Naval Academy. Only the best pilots, the ones who know their hand signals, are allowed to test their skill and determination to the absolute limits.

STARLIFTER

64/128
cass

You can't expect much in the way of sustained entertainment from budget games, but the good ones should keep you occupied at least until Bob's Full House has finished. And Starlifter fits the bill perfectly.

It's one of those two-way horizontal scrolling jobs in which you blast anything that moves, that's if you can survive the storm of bullets that seem to appear from nowhere, flying across the screen in both directions.

Since Mastertronic are usually pretty good with their stories, I'll let you in on the scenario, which involves the evil Paradusians who are slugging it out with the allies on the forgotten planets of Farantoo and Serezte. My view on this is, if they're forgotten, they can't really be worth all this blasting, but 2150AD politics were never my strong point.

Anyway, you have to destroy their cargo vessels which, like the convoys in the Gulf, are protected by fighters. Cargo vessels blow you up if you touch them, but the fighters blast back at you, so the best strategy is to blast both of them without dithering about which is which.

You are set a target of vessels to blast in each level, indicated at the bottom of the screen. Sixteen is the first target, and you go up in jumps of four on successive levels. Every 5,000 points you get another life. Pretty standard stuff really. I was hoping for more blasting power as my points total went up but it looks as though a single-fire laser cannon was all the allies could muster. Maybe the Paradusians have slapped on an arms embargo.

As I said, the screen scrolls in both nasties.

Cargo ship nasties are bigger, slower and easier to hit because they fly more in group formations. Fighters are a bit brighter than this, and will do pretty dodgy manoeuvres. Some of them, funnily enough, look just like your own ship. On higher levels, you have to blast all the fighters before more cargo ships will appear.

That's it really. The backdrop traffic jam changes a little on each level, as do the colours shapes and formations of the nasties. The only real challenge is making the high directions with a backdrop of large spaceships lined up in a row, looking rather like an interstellar traffic jam. Your one-man fighter (it looks like an astronaut with a jetpack) can fly both ways, as do the score that gets you another extra life. But for two sovs, who's complaining? I liked Starlifter, it's well up to Mastertronic's cheapo standards.

And what do they get when they finally make the Kromazone? a multicoloured badge. So the whole thing looks like being a worthless exercise — which sums up this game very well.

Kromazone is not one of Mastertronic's better efforts. It looks reasonable, as they all do, but playability is about as good as a plastic football pitch. There's really no scope for showing off your skills.

Your view is the front cockpit of the ship. Your task is to avoid or blast the wide range of nasties that come hurtling at you. It's a bit like driving a car through a shower of hailstones (for hailstones substitute golfballs). The terrain is of the checker-board type with a cityscape horizon that never gets any closer. You know, like the ones you get in road racing games. All the screens are the same, with just the background colours changing.

On the first level, you don't even get firepower. So all you can do is steer your way through the golfballs. A direct hit loses you one of your five levels. On successive levels, your laser cannon is activated. This is of the variety that shoots a beam from both sides of the screen to a fixed point somewhere in the middle. You have to decide whether to steer clear of the nasties or to wait until they're in range of your blaster.

There's nothing much else to do except to proceed up the levels avoiding and blasting ever more frantic waves of space debris, what's more annoying is that some of the nasties can fire at you from behind. There's absolutely nothing you can do about this you can't see anything from behind, and it seems to me to be just a dirty underhanded way of losing you more lives.

To be fair, the nasties are graphically impressive, so is the overall presentation in general. There's a good tune and a two-player option. But none of those can compensate for the tedium of the gameplay. Not for me, this one.

Digital Integration

Price:£9.99 cass/£14.95 disk

I my experience is anything to go by, most people's idea of a bobsleigh is anything from a tea tray to a bin bag. The absolute killer, if you can get away with it is the fridge door. Expect stiff penalties if you're caught though.

No such mucking around with Königssee, Innsbruck, Winterberg, Calgary and Bialist. It has a choice of different types of bobsleigh and different types of runner for varying Digital Integration's Bobsleigh. Like all their simulations this is serious stuff featuring very expensive gear and all the best snow spots this side of the alps. DI have gone to their usual trouble to ensure that everything is as it should be.

If you've played Winter Sports, Winter Events, or anything like that, then you'll have a good idea what this is all about. I must admit to being just a bit disappointed that Bobsleigh featured action and graphics no more impressive than any of its multi-event predecessors. In fact it looks very familiar. All the effort here has gone into making the simulation as real as possible, not in terms of the run itself, but in what you have to do as a team manager to get to, and win the Olympic games. So if you already have Winter Sports with its bobsleigh run, but are looking for improved realism in the action sequences, you'd better look somewhere else. Bobsleigh doesn't have it.

So what does it have? Well, it has six authentic tracks — St Moritz, weather conditions. It has financial realism: you must pay for everything including fitness training, colour co-ordinated team gear, repairs to your bob when your write it off through careless driving, two tennis racquets in case you have to walk to the bar and a pair of ear muffs in case your tumble hat blows off. It also gets the thumbs up from the British Bobsleigh Association and Nick Phipps and Alan Carnes, who, apparently, are pretty good at the real thing.

Off the track the whole thing is menu controlled. To begin with you will need to decide what kind of event to go in for, what kind of bob to try and kill yourself in, and whether you want to buy additional goodies like fitness training, steroids, track suits and the like. As a beginner you won't even get a look at the olympic course until you're rich enough to buy an olympic bob and finish in the top three at the world championships. In the early stages its best to go for the single events, moving on to six event seasons when you've at least got the skill and confidence to reach the end of the track without a major disaster. At this stage it's probably as well to pick up a little training which will give you the strength to push the bob faster to begin with. When you've done all that there's nothing left but to give it a go. In bobsleigh you get to do the run twice (whoopee!) and your two times are added together.

All the hard work comes at the beginning, where all you can see in the action window is the stationary bob with two little hands clutching the rail. Yes it's time for a push start. The matrix board above your head indicates 'Get Set', turns red, then a green 'GO' signals the off and its wiggle-the-joystick-like-a-looney time. Thankfully this only lasts a few them. Crashing into the side walls, if it doesn't stop you altogether, will slow you down considerably.

Outside the action window is displayed a speedo, a split time indicator which records your progress at the quarter, half, and three-quarter stage intervals, the track record and of course the current time. In the likely event of your cooking the whole thing up and attempting to finish on your bum, you can get a map showing exactly where on the course you copped it.

Once you become competent at getting down in one piece without the French, Swiss and Germans sniggering at your appallingly bad seconds, or 50 metres, at which time its a good idea to press the fire button and jump in. Omission of this crucial part of the proceedings will result in the bobsleigh plummeting the run without you. It's not very good at it.

From here on down it's just a question of keeping the thing the right way up and pointing in the right direction, which is a lot more difficult than it sounds. The trick is to anticipate the bends and find the smoothest line possible though time, the thing becomes a lot more enjoyable because you can then start accumulating sponsorship money, racing to win, and aiming for that Olympic gold. DI have done their homework and I've no doubt that all the details are in there, but for me that didn't make up for the disappointment of seeing the old 'bob standard' Cresta Run style display, I was expecting something new and this just didn't cut the ice.

Quite simply, it leaves other word processors lost for words.

WordPerfect 4.1 for the Amiga includes many features not found in other word processors.

Newspaper style columns can be displayed on screen, 110,000 word phonetic dictionary, word-count, background printing and automatic reformatting increase efficiency.

Line drawing and rulers, sorting search and 5-function maths are invaluable assets.

By using the Amiga's pulldown menus nearly all WordPerfect's features are available at the click of a mouse. This makes learning easier than ever before and using it a real pleasure. But if you prefer the traditional function keys there is a colour coded template to make life easy.

What you see on the screen is what will actually print. This makes good, professional layouts simple.

Documents are treated as a whole and not a series of pages. Reformatting and repagination after editing are automatic and very rapid.

waterways.

The gunboat can rotate clockwise and anti-clockwise, and can move either forwards or backwards. You are armed with cannons, heat-seeking missiles, torpedoes and depth charges, all in limited supply. The fire button activates the cannons, whereas the other weapons are launched via the keyboard.

This arrangement is more often than not inconvenient to say the least — it's not much fun trying to manoeuvre the boat while launching missiles, torpedoes and depth charges, especially when the action heats up. Playing with keys only doesn't make the going any easier either.

Control is sluggish and means that the enemy is inevitably presented with an easy target. Fortunately, the action is predictable, with enemy craft appearing and firing at exactly the same positions each time you play.

Sound is sparse, simplistic and frequently irritating, and the graphics are on the whole bland. The scrolling is as smooth as sandpaper, with the screen juddering quite badly at times — especially when the boat stops to allow the scenery to catch up. Gunboat is a very dated product in every respect, and sadly lacks the playability and polish of previous Piranha releases. Hopefully, their impending batch of licensed software won't suffer the same fate.

Five Ways began producing software almost four years ago, effectively launching book publishers Macmillan into the computer games market with their sailing, rally driving and athletics simulations.

Their latest production, released on Macmillan's Piranha label, is a horizontally scrolling shoot 'em up that puts you in control of a heavily armed, super secret gunboat. The objective is to negotiate the enemy's maze-like inland waterways, and destroy four major naval bases.

Not surprisingly, your intrusion into enemy waters does not go unnoticed, and progress is hampered by a profusion of aggressive warships, helicopter gunships and shore batteries — all of which shoot to kill.

A panel at the bottom of the screen displays the boat's fuel and ammunition levels, its speed and its engine condition. Damage is repaired and fuel and ammunition levels are replenished by docking at the enemy depots dotted about the

It says here that to become an Airborne Ranger you must be able to climb the toughest mountains, survive for five days in the blazing heat of the desert and then undertake guerrilla warfare in the jungle. Doesn't sound that tough to me, but I can eat three shredded wheat.

Microprose's Airborne Ranger

AIRBORNE RANGER

isn't just a survival test but a series of missions designed to let you use both your zapping and your strategic skills. It's not one of those boring war games, nor is it an out and out blaster like Commando.

It's the best of both worlds, allowing you full control over your severely crew-cut soldier in a range of 3-D scrolling terrains, with the emphasis on sharp thinking and fast reactions to get you through. There are 12 missions in all and you can play them either in practice mode or as a real veteran ranger.

The difference between the two is that in practice mode your score won't be registered on the Veteran Ranger Roster. As a veteran, if you complete a mission your soldier is saved to tape or disk for future use.

The 12 missions are graded in three stages of difficulty. Some are based in Arctic conditions, some in the desert and the rest in temperate zones. You can choose from simple missions like capturing an enemy officer or disabling an enemy aircraft to slightly trickier missions like liberating a POW camp or setting up a delayed sabotage.

More advanced players will go for campaign mode in which you complete all 12 missions in a predetermined order. Come through on one of these and you'll need scaffolding on your jacket to hold up the medals.

Whatever the mission, you always begin it the same way, with a briefing followed by a parachute drop from a plane behind enemy lines. So the first thing you see is an evenly along the route. They're essential for success because they provide not only extra weapons but first-aid.

Whether you're in the Arctic, the desert or anywhere else for that matter, the terrain remains pretty much the same, consisting of trenches, minefields, machine-gun posts, watery bits and barbed wire. Pressing a key brings up a map that shows your position in a wider area aerial view of the terrain scrolling upwards as the plane flies over. You must eject three supply pods whenever you think is the best place for them and then jump out when the green light goes. The parachute is joystick controlled so you try not to steer it onto a minefield — bad start.

You always land at the bottom end of the terrain. Since, in most cases, the object behind your mission is at the top end it makes sense to space out your supply pods

It's worth looking at the map, it's the only way you'll know whether or not you're in a minefield. Well, not quite, the other way you'll know is when you get blown up.

Now for the animation. This is pretty neat. Your soldier is fairly large, carries a back pack and gun, and will move in any direction. He will do his duty and try to make a break for it whilst you're busy blasting his mates. But it's not all subtlety. Some missions involve as much blasting as possible and your grenades and missiles will come in handy here for mass destruction. By the way, if you let fly with a missile whilst crouching in a trench, you blow yourself up — and serves you right.

If and when you accomplish a mission, you can summon up your reconnaissance plane to come and get you out. Having done that, you must make your way to the pickup can run, walk, crouch down and wriggle around on his stomach using his knees and elbows to move. The wriggling movements are pretty classy. But running is much less so. In fact, it's more a scamper. How can the gooks take you seriously when you do a sprightly skip up to their machine-gun post?

But the enemy has its own and there's a gunnery constantly hovering in front of him whichever way he turns. So to fire at the enemy, you merely line up the gunsight and press fire.

Now for the tactical stuff. All the missions are difficult and they need thinking out if you're to get back alive. The chunky manual explains each mission and gives a few hints to get you started. For example, in both the 'disable a plane' and problems. Their soldiers have only machine guns whilst you, simply by pressing a function key, can summon up a whole armoury: knife, grenade, missile or your trusty carbine. To add to their problems, the gooks have this bad habit of stamping their feet, so their boots tell you they're around before you even see them.

Your man is joystick controlled 'liberate prisoners' missions it's wise not to send the enemy a postcard telling them you're there.

Blasting your way through simply results in the plane you're after taking off (you hear its engines as it makes a getaway) or the prisoners being moved out to a different spot. So there, the trenches and the knife come in handy. Crawl along inside the trenches and the gooks won't see you, and if they do the knife disposes of them soundlessly.

Similarly, in the 'capture an enemy officer' mission, the bloke point. Even if you're captured, there's still hope because one of your buddies might get to rescue you in the POW mission.

I enjoyed Airborne Ranger. Microprose have obviously worked hard on it, both in programming and presentation — so they should, for the price. The handbook is of the usual high standard and there's a keyboard overlay for easy reference to the various key controls.

My only complaint is that the terrain graphics could have been better and more varied. The enemy installations look pretty much the same on all three of the terrains. More variety might have made this a very good game. As it is, it's still very enjoyable and a challenge as tough as you'll get anywhere.

Nice artwork, nice game, excellent label — things could hardly have looked more promising for Athens at first glance. 'Great!' thought I. At last I can do a really bona, enthusiastic review for CU — you know, the kind that would get you Christmas cards from software houses. Think again.

Athens "The blood of a ZX81 runs through her sprite".

Athens

... Athens is simply one of the worst games I've seen since Maccus popped its clogs from under Treasure Hunt! And having sat at it for two hours I can't help feeling that if new writers are still producing garbage like this AND getting it published, then 8-bit software is definitely dying or dead already.

The plot tells of a heroine, Athens, fighting her way through a strange land towards a showdown with the Dark Overlord. "The blood of a hundred Samurai runs through her veins" we are told — well, that's as may be, but unfortunately the blood of a ZX81 runs through her sprite, for Athens herself is a stupid-looking blur, apparently wearing a baseball cap, who earns to attack her foes with a selection of kitchen utensils! In fairness to Ocean, Athens is based on an arcade game by S.N.K. — a really one of the weakest and laziest original of the coin-op games — but even so you would have thought they could let loose a decent programmer on it.

The game scrolls 4-ways, apparently through 6 levels, with Athens having to leap over or destroy the variety of vague sprites which wobble towards her. Some appear to be worms, others are clearly meant to be ogres, all move in from the left or right in predictable patterns a la Ghosts and Goblins. Sometimes your path across the screen will be blocked by a wall, but this can be knocked down brick by brick and behind some bricks you will find by way of extra weapons, yes... more kitchen utensils. At the top of the screen is a strength indicator for your heroine and one for the particular weapon you are carrying. Obviously, certain weapons are necessary to destroy certain foes and discovering which is which seems to be the main point of the game. Only by defeating some of the more powerful foes can you progress to the next level.

Other details include an uninspiring soundtrack by Martin Galwey, no sound effects to speak of and background graphics like you used to draw with a big wax crayon when you were five. Need I say more?

I'm sorry I can't say anything complimentary about this one, because in the past I imagine have released some excellent products.

Milton Bradley's compelling game is now available for computer. Anticipate your friend's responses to the provocative questions, in Scruples. Think carefully before answering the moral dilemma you are posed, or turn the tables and give an opposite reply to the one expected! Bluff and counter bluff will be needed, and beware, the other players (the jury) can challenge your honesty at any time.

The computer interpretation is ingenious and funny. Up to ten people can play: all human, all computer, or any combination. There is a minimum of 64 characters to choose from, each with simulated 'intelligence'. Real players must 'adjust' their personalities and select their appearance from a gallery of faces provided. A minimum of 230 leading questions are built-in and no game will ever be the same.

Scruples, The Computer Edition, is available from all good software retailers or directly from Leisure Genius.

The way that system works is all the political strength supplied is added up and the side with the highest value obtains a swing in though is where you can have the countries randomly assigned to the East and West.

If you have the upper hand in the game the computer starts to either get desperate and do pointless things, or it just seems to lay down and die. For an old game Power Struggle looks good and it plays well too. If you have ever played Balance of Power on the ST or the Amiga and enjoyed it, you should like this too.

Although along the same lines as the excellent BoP it is in no way the same game. While initially absorbing Power Struggle begins to wear thin, as can be expected with this sort of limited option game. Not so much a

POWER STRUGGLE

Have you ever wondered what it would be like to control all the Communist countries in the world? Or all the countries loyal to Ronnie and the Constitution? You have? Well, Power Struggle lets you do just that. You can either be in charge of the Eastern bloc and its allies or NATO. Whichever you feel most comfortable with. You can pit your wits against a computer controlled opponent or fight it out with a mate, both jostling for complete world domination.

The entire game is played on a single screen. With little less than half being taken up by a world map. At the side of the screen are the icons available to you and the enemy, with information and command boxes taking up the remaining half. On the map is a command cursor with which you can have hours of fun by moving it aimlessly around. You can, for comic relief put it over a country of your choice and press fire. A blow up of the country and the surrounding area will appear in the command box along with a small cursor to accurately select the country. The vital statistic of your world will then be shown up in the information box, telling you its world alignment (East or West) military strength, industrial power, political influence and current status. By pressing the fire button twice you gain entry to the table of icons.

The attack icon is pretty obvious, it causes all your military resources to start hammering away at a neighbouring country of your choice, until their military strength for yours is depleted, then your government can claim the country or they might counter-attack against you.

The next icon on the list is the supply icon, which, when selected, armies to a next door neighbour. This leaves your country defenceless so this option is only wise if you are well protected with a buffer zone of other countries. Then favour from the neutral one. The Build Army icon transfers 12.5% of industrial strength to the military. And lastly Build Factories speaks for itself. Probably the best feature war game more a form of strategy, rather than a game that requires real tactics and thing-a-head planning skill.

But guide in and five of them in all, Power Struggle totals up to a cheap relief from standard games. The sort of thing you could break out at wet weekends when you feel like splitting better to do. But without splitting hairs you either like it or don't, I did. Ideal for power hungry Communist megalomaniacs or plain strategy freaks.

It is compatible with the majority of commercial software and can be switched off when necessary. going.

Down these mean streets come hurtling crowds of aircraft, rockets, torpedoes and bug-eyed hoppers and generally they don't look too friendly. So kill them.

Hidden somewhere amongst the 32 zones and 1390 screens of the city are the Eight Crystals of Zog, and it won't surprise you to learn that you've got to find all eight before you can once again sleep easy at nights. If you're one of the first five to finish the game, Mirrorsoft will give you a g netto-blastor autographed by young Tone himself. Despite that, the game is still worth playing.

What makes Zig Zag different from all the other shoot-the-aliens-pick-up-the-crystals games, besides the polish of its presentation, is the ingenious way in which you travel round the maze.

Your dinky little delta-wing can only fly up and down, and sidestep to left and right. It can't turn corners. Which is a bit of a problem in a city composed entirely of streets at right angles. But there are ramps at ground level at some junctions, and if you hit these at the correct angle of incidence they'll send you zooming off at 90° until you hit the next prism. If there is one.

If you're flying too high or off-target, you miss the prisms altogether, and you keep travelling Scattered throughout the city are shopping precincts where, provided you've got sufficient spondulicks, you can buy extra weaponry, extra lives, shields, maps, infra-red vision for the unlit zones, and x-ray vision which temporarily removes all buildings.

Most useful of all are the 'raisers' which levitate all nasties off the ground, allowing you to ricochet around the streets without being molested.

In a straight line until either you bounce off a wall or you get blown to bits by the enemy.

The whole thing sounds a bit like a physics lesson, and takes some getting used to. For the first 30 minutes or so you'll loathe it. Hopefully, though, things will suddenly click, and instead of rocketing all over the place like the Dow Jones Index, you can get on with the serious business of exploring and killing.

Actually, killing is in this instance not totally gratuitous. The more beasts and craft you destroy, the better your credit rating is at the bank, so that after a spree of stopped there. As well as the usual toggle options for music and sound effects, there is also a reverse joystick mode, enabling your stick to operate like an arcade joystick (push forward to descend), and a Brain Teaser mode. In this all the hunting and zapping goes on as before but in addition you've also got to solve horrible logic problems, involving the use of flashing targets which open and close streets, and remove and replace prisms. And then there are the time locks...

One of the most inventive variants on a well-worn theme, Zig Zag is like a breath of fresh air.

I looked Tetris up in the dictionary and there's no such word.

Sounds authentic though doesn't it? (Derived from something to do with four-sided shapes no doubt). Could be a goldfish or even a disease that makes your hair fall out. In fact it's none of those things, but, as you probably guessed, a game. I can honestly say it is really weird and I haven't seen anything like it for a long time if ever.

Don't be put off by this, but the nearest thing to this that comes to mind is the kind of thing you used to get in the program listings at the back of C.U. I'm not saying it's bad, I quite liked it, it's just that it's based on an amazingly simple idea and it looks, in the words of the programmer, "nothing mega".

So, what's it all about? Shapes that's what. Square shapes, rectangles, T shapes, L shapes and shapes that look like two staggered Regrettably (as this would make life a lot easier) the shapes can not be flipped.

If you can get the shapes to fit so snugly that they form a complete horizontal line from one side to the other, the line disappears and everything above it moves down. The object is to make the game last as long as possible, if not forever, by making all the shapes fit together, getting lots of lines and lots of points.

That's really all there is to it. This game was obviously written by someone with a real obsession for geometry. The game gets more and more difficult as time goes on and the bricks pile up. As the floor reaches the ceiling, so to speak, you have less time to think about where you're going to dump the things. There are a few things to help you out here. One is the panic button which freezes everything by pushing the joystick up. A bit annoying that you have to hit the space bar to bricks, if you get my drift. These shapes are all different colours, but as far as the game is concerned that's largely irrelevant. What is relevant is that there's this rectangular window in the middle of the screen.

The shapes fall, one at a time from the top of the window to the bottom.

Sometimes when the shapes fall they slot into each other ("besselate" is the word for it I think - ask your maths teacher) but most times they don't. You can, of course increase the chances for this happening by moving the shapes to the left or right and by rotating them with a quick press of the fire button.

unfreeze. The other thing to look out for is the 'what's coming next' indicator which tells you what's coming next. Handy.

It sounds simple and it is. It could have been written in Basic and probably was. One thing's certain, it's a lot better than it sounds. The music, which lasts for a full 25 mins is pretty good and I'd guess that more work went into the loading screen than the game itself.

Two criticisms, one fairly minor, the other one pretty serious news. The blocks scroll down a character space at a time which is pretty rough and amateurish looking, why no pixel scroll? The heavy duty moan is that this is very entertaining for fifteen minutes, but when you've seen all there is to see there's, er, nothing left to see. Or to put it another way, the fun, if that's the word for it, is very short lived.

Spore generators are all over the place, confined by the yellow beams.

Your job is to zap the apores and their generators, what else? To do that you have to break the beams to get through. This is done either by a combination of zapping the square at either end, which turns the energy off, or by zapping the mirror that deflects the beam so that it travels a different way.

As soon as you open up a section, around the lab. Each barrel picked up earns you 100 more points. There's also the occasional flask which gives you more energy.

The only disappointing thing about Spore are the graphics. The scene looks nothing like the inside of a lab. What you get is a mass of squares, the spores being the ones that flash. And it's the same for each level.

If you manage to complete all the levels in Spore, the programmers have included a function that lets you design your own levels.

With its DIY level designer, Spore has got to be good value. This type of game may be a little dated now but they still can't be beaten for sheer manic blasting. Now where did I put that Dettol?

Bohdan Buciak

SPORE

E urch! Nasty scenario this: infected laboratory, genetically altered killer spores, pesticides.

Despite risk of terminal infection, Spore is a pretty good game. It resembles those Gauntlet-type games in which generators pump out hordes of nasties that swarm around. In this case, the nasties are mutant apores.

The scene is the inside of an infected laboratory. This is divided up into sections by flashing yellow barriers. Barriers are laser beams that travel between two pale squares. Some of the beams are deflected at right angles by mirrors.

the spores start swarming. So you get ready for some manic blasting to get rid of them. The best way is to zap the beam, make a quick retreat and then blast them as they come at you. Being pretty dumb spores, they all travel in a straight line so it's easy to get rid of them quickly if you're in the right position. Between waves of spores, you blast the generators.

Any spores that hit you will drain a little energy, which is displayed at the bottom of the screen. Run out of energy and you're terminally contaminated—and your friends will no longer want to know you.

Also on each level there are the usual items to pick up. The antidote for the apores is in barrels dotted only one at a time. Now for the nasties, there are a few 'guardian' droids knocking around who will take a life if they bump into you. Apart from them, there's only the boulders to contend with.

The tunneller Droid is particularly susceptible to boulders. If it tunnels away at a chunk of earth beneath a

There are elements of strategy in Survivors. It's best to try to keep the three droids together as opposed to just going careering off with one, since the skills of the other two will come in useful at various stages.

So it doesn't sound too bad so far? But I haven't mentioned the graphics yet. These are of the 'block' variety—you know, the stuff that looks as though it was programmed in Basic. Scrolling is equally bad. It's not really a scroll but a judder.

Admittedly the three droids are graphically more acceptable. At least they have moving parts. The earth mover has claws that open and shut and the boulder pusher stamps its feet, waves its arms and nods its head—wacky mover.

And lastly sound. There isn't any, except for a different pitch of beep when you transfer control between droids and a constant ticking sound as the seconds pass.

I can't say I enjoyed Survivors. There's really nothing to commend it, owing to its severe lack of anything approaching originality.

boulder, the offending item is likely to fall on its head. This, to me, was more fun than transporting boring old survivors. With great skill, you can get your tunneler droid completely surrounded by boulders, leaving it totally useless.

The game has seven levels, each one having both a time limit and a specific amount of survivors to rescue. So in level one, you get 3,000 seconds (just under an hour, yawn) to rescue 135 people. Level two? Well, I couldn't manage to stay awake for it.

You've read the comic, seen the TV show, worn the pyjamas, slept in the sheets, jogged in the track suit, sat in the bean bag wearing the slippers, now you can play the computer game. Believe it or not, if you're a big fan of the Mobile Armoured Strike less, is where the comic ends and the game begins.

In the role of Matt Tracker, you must travel through the vortex in Thunderhawk and rescue the stranded MASK Agents. There are four locations in time and space and with the exception of the first—telling you who he is. The job's not finished yet though, before you can head for the vortex you must pick up your colleague's MASK, only then can you head for the vortex and the next level.

The playing area is depicted in the familiar aerial fashion and scrolls one of four ways whenever Thunderhawk reaches the edge of the screen. Thunderhawk itself is nicely animated with a sort of momentum which makes it continue trees, more boulders (which can be shoved out of the way), volcanoes, dinosaurs, rescue turtles and a pterodactyl in place of Switchblade. Level 3 — far future — features black holes UFOs and the like, and the last level, Venom base, has some real mean stuff like snakes, acid and giant spiders. On the last level you must not only collect the last two agents and their MASKS, but completely destroy the Venom base before returning to the vortex.

What with all this nastiness floating around you'd expect to be able to defend yourself and fight back, and Thunderhawk is well equipped with dual cannons to blast anything minor out of the way. Occasionally your path will be blocked by impassable rocky terrain, trees or whatever. This situation can easily be remedied by the use of the bombs which can be found lying in similar containers to MASKS, scanners, keys and so on. The bombs are on a short fuse and have the added advantage taking out any enemy tanks, dinosaurs, or whatever happens to be passing. That includes you, so remember to stand well back after lighting the blue touchpaper.

If you get badly damaged, whether it's your own fault or not, the damage meter at the bottom of the screen will show you the extent of the bad news. Providing you can find a repair kit lying around it shouldn't turn into a desperate problem. Like everything else though, it's a good idea to make a mental note of where these things are if you cuss them by without needing them.

So often licensed games of this sort are just a name, a lot of cash up front to some marketing outfit and a badly copied picture of the real thing on the cassette inlet. It's nice to see that Gremlin haven't let that attitude get in the way of their ability to consistently produce good games. So even if you're not a slapper-slinging, watch-wearing MASK fan reserve a space in your stocking for it.

Whether you're an avid MASK collector, or you just tune in to the programme at weekends and read the comic, you'll find that Gremlin's game has more in common with MASK than most of the merchandise knocking around.

As well as the software there's a single page comic which explains the plot pretty well. Matt Tracker is on his way back to Boulder Hill when he is ambushed by Venom. Mayhem drops a bomb which opens up a time vortex and Floyd Mulloy throws all the Mask agents into it. The two then hang around waiting for Tracker to show up in Thunderhawk. Mulloy attempts to destroy Thunderhawk, but succeeds only in badly damaging it. This, more or Boulder Hill, where you pick up Bruce Sato — there are two agents to be rescued in each. The procedure for this is straightforward, but less than easy. First you must locate the whereabouts of the agent and to do this you must first locate his personal scanner. Obtaining the scanner is not the end of your problems though.

Once picked up, the scanner must be activated, and to do that you will need all four pieces of the security key. Pieces of key can be found all over the place, but only four will assemble to form the letter which, when pressed will unlock the scanner mechanism. Then eight arrows at the bottom of the screen point you in the right direction and you should have no trouble picking up the stranded agent. When you've found him a status sheet pops up in motion for a few seconds after you've let go of the joystick.

The landscape features provide all sorts of obstacles and dangers which vary, depending on the level. Boulder Hill has, well, boulders, a railway line, very unfriendly jeeps and tanks and Switchblade the super intelligent helicopter bomber. It's a desolate landscape which makes the game at first sight look very very much in the Rambo/Who Dares Wins/Commando genre (which it isn't). "Thankfully you don't have to be any good at physics to get to grips with this printer. So I reckon 99% of the population should find it a doddle.

There are lots of different computers in this school and we haven't found one yet that this printer won't work with. What's fundamental is that all the switches controlling what the printer prints aren't jammed up behind thousands of wires, so unlike some of the more cranky models we've got here, changing the 1200 is quick and easy. It also gives a bundle.

I don't know how much they cost but I do know we're getting more of them so knowing how tight they are round here they can't be that pricey. The real test has to be that it's survived the attentions of Paula, Sarah and me, so I reckon it's pretty tough. And with the right computer it produces all sorts of crucial type styles, a whole heap more absorbing than juddies and iron filings.

PHM Pegasus is a patrol Hydrofoil Missile craft simulation. The hydrofoil is the Jetship of the age by all accounts. According to the blurb it's "so agile, enemy radar mistakes it for a low flying helicopter, so fast, the enemy has only minutes to react." That, of course, depends very much on who's driving the thing. To begin with, I think the enemy were somewhat surprised to find they had hours to react, but the situation didn't last long.

Pegasus is not the kind of simulation that pops up an enemy for you to shoot and destroy and then obliges with another and another and another until you get bored into trying more exciting things like capsizing your own ship or firing on innocent bystanders. Instead Pegasus offers you eight missions based on 'real-life' scenarios, each of which tests your ability to command and control the hydrofoil's weapons and navigation systems.

The first two scenarios are in fact for training purposes and there's not really any point in going for the more ambitious and exciting missions until you've become accomplished at these. Battle training introduces ten enemy ships into your stretch of water and you have to blow them out of it. The ships appear one at a time so you can just about keep calm, think through what you are doing, and become a really efficient weapon of destruction.

Pegasus operates on two screens, the bridge, where all the action takes place and the operations map, where you can survey a wide area (it takes in continents) and set several courses on the auto pilot. Auxiliary forces can also be controlled from the operations map. On certain missions you can make use of two surveillance helicopters. You simply set their destination with the cross-wire cursor, set their speed and they get on with it all by themselves. If they spot anything at all it shows as a radar blip on the map. Autopilot can also be set for the hydrofoil, but moving to the bridge and taking joystick control overrides the autopilot.

The bridge is where it all happens, of course. The first contact you will have with enemy ships is when they show up on your radar which has a 40 mile range. For action at close quarters the radar range can be reduced in steps down to 2.5 miles. There are a number of things you can do when you spot an enemy ship, all of which either directly or indirectly involve blowing it out of the water. First it might be an idea to discover what it is and how dangerous it is, which you can do with the 'ship spotters' guide in the centre pages of the manual (which incidentally is spoiling—half of mine was missing).

There are two ways to blow ships up. The easy way is to let rip with a guided missile and forget all about them. On the bridge there are two modes; manoeuvre and aiming. Manoeuvre means steering (i.e. you can turn left/right, and speed up/down). You can also "target" an enemy ship which brings up a closer view in the binoculars at the top of the screen. At this point, pressing the space bar takes you into aim mode, F3 selects the guided missile and I'm sure I don't have to tell you what the fire button does. Guided missiles can take up to about a minute to reach the target depending on its range, but they're pretty reliable.

Smaller patrol boats and ships at close range can be taken out with the 76mm canon. Same procedure as with the missiles, only this time press F1 for the gun before letting rip. An aim corrector flashes to show where your last shot was wide of the mark so that you can correct accordingly. You have a lot more shells than missiles, so you can really go mad with these.

Of course the enemy doesn't just sit there waiting to be blown up, it helps if you try not to think of them as people's fires at you. With shells all you can do is try and dodge, missiles are more fun altogether. A is all about.

For example, Search for terrorists involves tracking down and destroying two missile corvettes which have attacked an American missile base off the coast of Sicily. You have a Sparviero hydrofoil (armed with Exocets) and an AB212 helicopter to track them down. In all the missions scoring is based on several factors like completion of the main objective (which is not always complete annihilation—there are reconnaissance and escort missions), enemies destroyed and time remaining—there is a limit.

As a simulation Pegasus is certainly fascinating to play, it achieves just the right mix of complexity, realism and impressive graphics to keep you hooked. The fact that there is a final objective which must be achieved within the time limit if you are to succeed usually ensures a tension filled finale. The only think I have to say against it is that, inevitably, the old 'Uncle Ron keeping the free world safe from the gooks, Commies and fanatics' mentality is fairly prevalent. But then if you are that bothered you probably wouldn't be interested in war games for a lot of reasons. As war games go, Pegasus succeeds very well.

Ken McMahon

▲ View from the bridge.

'lock' indicator tells you when one is on its way in. The procedure is to wait until it is about a mile away, launch the chaff (a sort of mixture of Bacofol, old Kit Kat wrappers and empty lager cans which fools the enemy radar and deflects missiles) and belt off at right angles. Nine times out of ten you can get away with it, but if you do get hit, damage indicators like the ones you get on the new Fiat Uno dashboard show you what's out of action.

When you get reasonably good at this you can move on to the graduation exercise, where all ten ships are gunning for you at once. This is good fun, the thing to do is blow them all to pieces as quick as you can. Providing you come up to scratch with the training this should really be no problem, then you can move on to the real thing. The remaining six missions are entitled: Terrorist attack, A better part of valour, Search for terrorists, Supply convoy, Surveillance mission, and JIHAD, which should give you a good idea of what kind of thing this

NIGEL MANSELL'S

GRAND PRIX

"NIGEL MANSELL'S GRAND PRIX" is ready to take you and your computer into the fast lane of game excitement. As well as capturing the speed and adrenalin pumping danger of the world's greatest sporting spectacle, the game is the first racing simulation to reflect some of the enormous advances in car design and technology that have taken place recently.

And yet the game still offers an excellent opportunity for even the most inexperienced novice to blast round the track at excessive speeds with the turbo on maximum boost and not a care in the world for fuel consumption, tyre wear or racing line. However, for those who know, or want to know a little more, there is an opportunity to race a selection of the world's greatest circuits in the quest for valuable championship points.

The red lights are on - you snap into gear. The engine roars - your grip tightens on the steering wheel. The crowd goes wild as the lights flash to green. 900 brake horsepower is suddenly unleashed and the Williams hurtles to the first bend. Ahead of you lies 31 weeks of the world's most gruelling and spectacular sporting championship.

(Technical Consultants - Nigel Mansell, Peter Windsor, Williams Grand Prix Engineering Ltd.)

Just over half the race completed and you're lying second to your main rival - 0.8 seconds ahead of you.

Your pit crew are in constant contact with you throughout the race.

Correct gear selection is vital.

Use your Turbo for extra power - but watch that fuel.

This panel gives you vital information on your race performance.

Sound as

Two new cheapo music packages from Firebird offer you a music editor and a drum machine for a total of a fiver. Is that too good to be true? Is that all it takes to be the next Pet Shop Boys? Ken McMahon gets up to get on down...

The first thing I have to tell you is that judging by his picture on the cassette inlay Ubik is a complete nohead. Unless you happen to think that looking like Michael J Fox with shoulder length hair, a headband, holes in the knees of your jeans, a denim waistcoat and studded leather wristbands is a really cool way to dress of course. Anyway, Ubik's style, or rather his lack of it, hasn't really got very much to do with Ubik's Music, which is a complex, but cheap synthesiser package. Before I get on to what it actually does I'd like to moan a lot about the instructions. As I said, it's a complex program and you'd expect pretty lengthy 'how to get a note out of this thing' type explanations. Now I appreciate Firebird trying to keep the cost down and all that, but trying to fit a 30 page manual on to the back of a postage stamp just doesn't work. If you buy this make sure you've got a magnifying glass.

From what I could make out the program is an editor which enables you to create and sequence music using the SID chip's three channels. Commands are entered via a text editor which is split into three columns — one for each channel. You can create sequences by entering the notes to be played in order and there are several additional commands that can be used. Voice, for example, selects the voice definition to be used for subsequent notes. Tempo alters the playback speed. Slide and Drum you could probably guess at. So the dedicated composer could build an entire piece assembled from individually created sequences in this manner.

Apart from the editor there is one other major part of the program and that is the live playedit voices section. The screen here is divided into two sections, the top half being a keyboard the bottom displaying all the voice, waveform, filter and other SID chip parameters which affect the way notes will sound. The temptation is to do the obvious and have a good old bash on the keyboard, but while this is good fun it's vastly underusing the potential of the program. From this section you can also playback music created in the editor through any one, or all three channels. So you could, for example play your base line through channel three and accompany it on the keyboard through channels one and two.

All the parameters in the lower half of the screen can be changed to alter the sound while it is playing — this part is quite good for experimentation, but it helps if you know what you're doing.

Ubik's Music has all the filing operations you would expect to find on a more expensive program. You can load and save music, get a directory if you're using disk and even use the DOS commands from within the program. You can also compile completed compositions for use in Basic or machine code programs.

This really is a very extensive sound/music editor and there's no doubt that at three quid you're getting a lot for your money. All the same I'd advise against buying it if you just want to bash around on the keyboard and have a bit of a laugh creating special effects — pick a synth package that's easier to understand. User Friendly is one thing this isn't. It looks like it may have developed into a commercial program out of something the author wrote for his own use. As such to get the most out of it you will need to have at least a rudimentary knowledge of the workings of the SID chip.

Firebird
Price:
£1.99

a Pound

When Microhythm became the utility to first crash its way in to the charts way back at the beginning of this year. It was hailed as the cheapest drum kit in the history of the universe. £1.99 for a whole bundle of different sampled percussion sounds was sneered at. Amazingly, Firebird has enhanced the program fourfold, but retained the £1.99 price tag. Now renamed Microhythm+, it features not just one set of sampled sounds, but four. Crammed onto both sides of the cassette, you can choose from allows you to bash around on the keyboard, trying out each of the sampled sounds available. Because sampled sound consumes vast quantities of memory there are few variations, and depending on which section you have loaded, you will have between 12 and 20 or so different sounds to choose from. By far the most interesting is the microvocal set — modified human voice samples. When you get bored messing around with the keyboard you can move on to something more ambitious.

In bar write mode the individual sounds can be put together and you can compose bars of music. Notes of varying pitch can be placed on the bar with spaces between them to denote rests. Once your bar is composed you can play it to see how it sounds and you can in fact remove and alter notes on the bar while it's playing (your timing has to be pretty good though). As well as altering the pitch of the notes you can introduce 'flam'. This makes the note double beat with a short delay in between which can be tampered with for some wild effects.

Having composed all of the bars you need you can put them together in song write mode. Each bar is numbered and it's simply a case of typing in the bar numbers in the sequence you want them played. That's all there is to it. It's a simple program to use but a lot of fun. And if you play it through a hi-fi (via the audio video din socket at the back of the 64) it will not only sound ten times louder, ensuring maximum enjoyment for all the neighbours. If Microhythm was a bargain that makes this version an absolute giveaway. Make sure you get a copy.

MICRO RHYTHM # # # #

micolatin, microdisco, microvocal an microtone.

The first two sets are probably the closest thing to the original Microhythm's set of sampled drum sounds and include bass, snare, handclap, crash and all the rest. Microtone includes some more melodic sounds in addition to the pure percussion stuff. But for sheer outright wackiness microvocal has to be heard to be believed. This section provides you with a selection of sampled voice sounds meddled with to such an extent it's almost hard to tell they ever belonged to a human being in the first place. They're weird, unnatural even. All four sets of sounds load as a separate program and each comes with some sample tunes composed presumably by the program's author, Simon Pick. You can play these tunes in their entirety, steal bars and incorporate them in your own compositions, take what's there and modify it, or start completely from scratch on a brand new beat.

As with its predecessor, Microhythm+ has three operating modes; song write, bar write and rest time mode. The rest of these Super Sprint? No. Super Sprint clone? Yes! From what I hear, this was based loosely around BMX Simulator, though it's nowhere near as good. In this case there are fourteen tracks, each one centred around the idea that driving under bridges is fun. Not very! For the best part you're clueless as to what's happening; whether you're stuck, whether there's an oil slick or some other difficulty.

Each course lasts for three laps or ninety-nine seconds, whichever comes first. Super Sprint's appeal was that you could wrap yourself around the steering wheel as you threw the car around bends. Sadly, ▲ Drive that shoebox, sucker!

GRAND PRIX SIMULATOR

most of the world's top software programmers do not realise that a five inch piece of plastic makes a bad steering wheel. So you end up getting cramp in your trigger finger which is using the fire button as an accelerator pedal, while the rest of the hand is bending the stick at alarming angles trying to rotate the car onto a half decent heading.

Speaking of cars, the one in Grand Prix Simulator looks more like a soap dish. In layman's terms, a block. Interesting huh? The tracks aren't exactly pretty to look at either, samey and bland. The only variation comes with the different track positions. What is pretty, though, are two neat cars which take up the top third of the screen, doing nothing other than looking, well, pretty.

If not a contender for biggest rip off of the year, Grand Prix Simulator has to take the title of most frustrating bear your head against an iron anvil award. The inertia effect is put to good use, but strategically placed gaps in the crash barriers mean that as you come out of a death diving spin, you crash through the pole and into a stand of spectators. Here's the tricky bit: with no room to manoeuvre or accelerate and no way of going into reverse, how do you do a U-turn to get out again? A weeny bit tricky eh? The computer car doesn't seem to fare much better either. Sadly though, it still suffers from the syndrome that first appeared in BMX Sim, where you could easily say to yourself "I don't have to worry about being behind at this stage, the computer car crashes at the third bend and takes three seconds to get going again."

The sound is different, a strange technomusic noise blares, somewhere between an engine noise and a tune. The brake noises sound like a pig who has just discovered that it's destined to end its days on Bernard Matthews' plate. Supporting the sound FX is an equally tacky display of digitised speech, the person whose voice was digitised would have no problem on an advert for Tunes or announcing the cancellations of trains. Both jobs require an inability to grasp the fundamentals of speaking through the mouth.

GPS is officially endorsed by Formula Three race driver Johnny Dumfries, who cannot possibly be doing his career much good by putting his name down for a game such as this.

At first sight worthy, but it's not until you have tried persevering with it for more than an hour and realising there is no way you're at fault with the game, that it becomes clear that it's the game itself which is so hideously frustrating. This is the sort of game I would only recommend to Yuppies who have lost their driving licenses and don't mind forking out for more than a day's entertainment, or who just can't wait for a regular fix of the genuine version of Super Sprint.

My major gripe though is that it

You gotta do it right or wind up dead" one of King of Chicago's between scene messages reminds you, and that ain't easy in this game, buddy.

KOC is an example of what publicity folk have taken to referring to as "interactive movies". Basically what this seems to mean is that the game plays itself, and you're able to "interact" with it, making decisions for the main character and thereby changing the storyline and influencing whether or not there's going to be a happy ending.

Sounds a bit dull, eh? But when you actually sit down to King of Chicago, for some stupid reason you'll find you just can't get up until you've reached the end, or rather, an end.

According to the promo material there are over one billion different ways to play King of Chicago, and, though I can't say I've personally tried 'em all, I'm prepared to take their word for it. This is a massive game — so massive, in fact, that you need to use not one but two Amiga drives to play it comfortably. Every time I sat down to play I was faced with new scenarios and new decisions to make.

The main character, played by you, is an ambitious young hood by name of Pinky Callahan. You're from the Windy City's less powerful Northside, for years overshadowed by the Southside mobsters led by the infamous Al "Scarface" Capone. But now Big Al's been taken off the scene (for tax fraud) and suddenly Chicago's up for grabs. You want to be the next King of Chicago: so how you gonna get what you want?

Well, you're going to have to be ruthless, tough and real cunning. You've got to know who to trust, who to rub out, who to lean on and who to be respectful to. One of

THE KING OF CH

KOC's most intriguing features is the way in which it forces you to make snap decisions based on your assessment of another person's character — and if you blurt out the wrong thing you could wind up friendless, which, in Chicago is a short step from a quick dip in a pair of concrete slippers.

You make your choices by guiding your cursor — a fly (on the wall!) — to whichever of Pinky's impulses you think he should follow. These "impulsive" bubbles (usually in twos or threes) crop up fairly regularly — and if you don't decide swiftly which one Pinky should go for the computer will make the decision instead. The decisions you're faced with range from whether you should buy your moll, Lola, a new car, to whether you should plug someone straight away or wait a while.

The first step to be negotiated in your climb to the "throne" is the Old Man. This grizzled, cigar-chewing wrinkly has run the Northside for yonks, but has had little success against the Capone-led Southside. So should you just walk straight in and blow him away? Or should you first test the water via a discreet meeting — usually held in a seedy Gant's bog — with the powerful and perceptive Ben? And, if you do decide to talk to Ben, how are you going to get him on your side? One rash word and he'll clam up or, worse still, turn against you.

▲ An ambush goes wrong for the Northsiders.

▲ Pinky's desktop and GHQ.

Then there's the bent politician, Alderman Burke — pay him off, or ignore him? Your girl, Lola — do you keep her sweet or treat her mean to maintain your reputation for toughness? Other members of the Northside mob — impress them with bravado and risk being shown up, or play it cool and hope that works? Each decision has a consequences, or, more usually, several, and each game you play unfolds differently throwing up a new relationship between you, Pinky, and those with whom you come in contact in your quest for number one spot.

CHICAGO

At certain points in the game, one of your decisions will lead you into a short arcade-style sequence. For instance, if you decide to waste the Old Man, you'll actually have to guide your cursor to a vital spot and press the fire button. Move too slowly, or miss, and it'll be his turn and he don't usually miss! There's also a brief sequence when you have a try to guide a bomb from a moving car into one of the opposition's premises. These bits of arcade gameplay are clumsy and very simple — quite why they were included isn't really clear.

Indeed, all the movements that occur onscreen are pretty slow and unrealistic. The characters' mouths move when they speak — all speech is text rather than digitised, by the way — and make occasional hand and head gestures, but the animation really seems to have been an afterthought.

However, quibbles about character movement swiftly pale into insignificance beside the brilliant achievements of much of the rest of this product.

The graphics are superb, amusing, incredibly detailed and painstakingly accurate in their historical details (check out the art deco lampstand in Alderman Burke's office).

The soundtrack features some amazing digitised rinky-dink piano music which, against all the odds, manages to conjure up the atmosphere of speakeasies, fedoras and violin-cases.

But most of all, it's King of Chicago's sheer playability that makes it exceptional. I defy anyone, even the most diehard shoot 'em up fiend, not to enjoy KOC's DIY stories. They're witty (just take Lola's response to Pinky's appeal for a bit of nooky: "You'll get your loving when I get the car!"), they're historically fascinating, and they provide a brief, and useful, education in the tricky art of getting people to do what you want them to do. (Must have a go — Ed. It's like life, really — choose wisely, or tonight you might sleep with the fishes

▲ A mourning mother speaks.

▲ Pinky displays his chivalrous side.

Milk the cow

Who has the strongest arm?

Back in time when men were men and the west was still wild, life was not all John Wayne, Indians and arrows. In fact it was 350 days a year of pure boredom. But what of the other four days a year? Well they're taken up with what is probably Summer Games earliest American counterpart. Instead of Olympians coming from the four corners of the world, passing strangers were asked to challenge the town's best sportsman.

Only six disciplines in this game though, but they do boast a mind boggling 800 moves between them! Each one of the events is portrayed in wacky cartoon style graphics with excellent animation and colouring. And what of the events?

Armwrestling requires timing rather than brute force and determination. There is an icon of an arm in the top centre of the screen, and when the muscle on that is on its maximum 'flex' you have to push up on the joystick. This will make the muscles on your arm icon increase and force your opponent's arm further towards the candle. Didn't I mention the candle? Well instead of relying on the referee's eyes, the first that hits the candle will force the loser to scream out and declare his defeat. You can also cheat by propping your elbow up if the ref dozes off during the match.

After the wristbreaking armwrestling you have Beer Shooting. There are no scruples behind this event with the two town dunces being used to hold beer mugs, cider pots, glasses, bottles and a tiny little gold thing in the palm of their divvy little hands. You have to shoot the five objects in succession without your opponent hitting any. In other words it's definitely a case of being quick on the draw.

Fancy a bit of Dancing? You'd better because that's what comes next. It's a case of Simon says I'm afraid. So as the dancing girl does. This can prove fun, apart from the comments of some of the front row spectators. And there's an added problem, every time you become out of the step with the music the pianist becomes very irate and has to be pacified by a beer. And you can only afford three.

Now you have Quick Spitting. Not the cans but 'baccy. You have to bite off a large chunk then get the joystick going in a rhythmic left to right movement, to make it nice and malleable. Select angle and power and fire away. You can choose one of two targets for your globe of tobacco, your opponent's bucket (the real target) or the opponent's face. The only advantage to gain from a full facial 'baccy assault' is that it slows your opponent down for a while and obviously distracts him from his chewing.

What could possibly follow that? It's the age old sport of Cow Milking. What will happen here is you will either spend the event suffering from a complete lack of timing with the cow beating you're brains out with its tail, or you might get it together and pull a pint. I ended up with a headache and one very irate cow.

And finally to finish it all off nicely (if you're still alive that is) is the Eating Competition. Balance a mouthful of beans on your spoon, cram them into your mouth and chew with a true decathlon wobbling action on the joystick. If you don't wobble fast enough you wind up swallowing it whole and belching a lot. What I didn't find in the instruction for this event is that by going right and pressing fire on the joystick you kick your opponent under the table.

The game is full of great effects, cartoon graphics, and background animation. The sound is great too, though that tends to be expected on Amiga software nowadays. Definitely the best sport simulation to date on the Amiga. Great fun too. One for the Christmas shopping list, if not sooner. Well designed, produced and executed, a sure fire winner partner.

AMIGA

Amiga Simply Megaware
Price:
£23.00 disk

The Amiga has begun to get a reputation as a great machine with an awful software base. Things, however, are beginning to look up. Garrison arrived on my desk.

Even as the first loading screen appeared I knew I was in for a treat. While the rest of the game loaded, the screen displayed the game's title, and a sampled bass-drum thudded methodically in the background. After swapping the discs around (annoyingly this is necessary both on single and double disc drive systems) and waiting a few seconds, the title screen appeared.

WOWEEEE!!! The picture on the screen is fabulously drawn in shades of silver and grey, with the word Garrison displayed at the top in continuously changing colours (just as with the Original Gauntlet screen). Most stunning, however, is the music. Using the guitar riff from 'Money for Nothing', and throwing in some Hendrix-style improvisation (together with thumping drums and energetic bass), this game has got to Keys to collect, ghosts to avoid . . .

GARRISON

The cheaply produced packaging and hand-typed manual may lead potential purchasers to overlook this game, don't. Up until this day, Starblazer was the best piece of software for the Amiga. Garrison can now justifiably lay claim to that crown.

Even the package has a clue to what lays within; on the back there is a screenshot of what looks like a rather well-known multi-player arcade game whose name also begins with G. Yup, you've guessed it, Garrison is the first Gauntlet clone for the Amiga.

have the best sound I have ever heard on a home computer.

The first 20 minutes was therefore spent listening to the music which is programmed by another German team, Sound Creation Studio, and a pretty talented bunch they must be. What is most impressive about the music is that it is not sampled. This team has taken a much slower route, by actually using the Amiga to program the music with, but if this is anything to go by that's the way to do it. The spot effects, too, are lovingly created with some spectacular splurges and crashes.

Once I managed to get over how good the music was, I started to look in awe at the depth of the game. In simple terms you could describe it as a Gauntlet clone, but when you look carefully at this game there is, if possible, more to this game than even the original arcade version of Gauntlet (good — Ed!).

The game allows you to play any two of the five available characters simultaneously (yes, that is the major drawback); using joysticks to control the characters. However, you can choose to play all five characters, and then as you get to various levels you can choose a character most suited to each level.

All of the five characters have different names — Wizard, Warrior, Elf, Valkyrie and Dwarf — and not surprisingly they also have different characteristics; more power, speed, magic power, etc. The only new character is the Dwarf, who is an excellent partner for any of the powerful players, due to his excellent speed and manoeuvrability.

In play, the game has all the depth of the arcade game, with 123 levels of frantic action, ranging from short ... haven't we seen this somewhere before?

Sure, but who cares if the game's a smash.

and simple to mind-bendingly soul destroying, and including my most hated levels, the invisible ones, and some in which one wrong move leads to almost certain death. Most of the enemies appear to be similar to the arcade version with thousands of ghosts, goblins as well as the devilish little blue ones (bit technical — Ed.).

The graphics are really remarkable. Each floor has a different pattern on it, and all the characters are detailed beyond belief. This, combined with excellent animation, and the smoothest scrolling yet on the Amiga really reflects the effort and skill that has gone into this game.

The only immediately disappointing aspect of the game is that the characters that you play all look the same (unless you have a machine with 1 Mbyte), but this is a game yet for the Amiga, it is the closest thing to an arcade game yet to be produced on a home micro and it should not be missed by any Amiga owner. In the UK it is sold by a company called Simply Megaware, priced at £23 (still too much, but in this case more justified than most).

The one problem I can envisage is a legal one. Garrison is remarkably similar to Gauntlet, and US Gold say they are planning an Amiga version of Gauntlet. Somehow I can see a conflict developing here. This apart, let's hope that the company behind Garrison are busy developing new games, and not just clone clones.

very minor criticism. The score of each character is displayed permanently, as is each player's health and his ability at each of five qualities. Speed, Hand-to-hand combat, Magic, Armour, Shot speed and Fire power. Overall, I have found Valkyrie the best compromise, especially when used in conjunction with Wizard.

Oh, I almost forgot to mention, there is actually a plot to this game. Apparently you have to rescue a princess, name of Angelique, but as we all know, this kind of plot is generally thought up by over-anxious PR people in a drunken stupor (© Andrew Wright 1987).

Overall, Garrison is quite simply brilliant. It is the most playable

For a game that informs you that it was inspired by the ZZ Top video "Rough Boy" the immediate audio-visual impact of Leviathan is quite surprising.

There is no sign of any of the ZZ Top trade marks — no leggy blondes in stockings and suspenders, no heavy guitar, or bearded geezers. What you are immediately aware of however is still pretty impressive in its own right — an incredibly smooth-scrolling and detailed 3D landscape.

The storyline goes like this: You are taken thirty three seconds into the future to where "pop videos inspire crazy fantasies in the minds time, and move up and down as the game scrolls and in and out of the screen as well.

The problem with all this flyability is that it makes the ship very difficult to control. You really have to master the eight different joystick movements that fly the ship. These are move left, move right, climb, dive, change direction left, direction right, speed up and slow down. Just as in a boat, 'em up, joystick control is all important.

I would have been happier with less control over the ship. Had it been easier to fly the sheer enjoyment of chasing the aliens and making them eat photons' death would have been maximised.

The aim of all this stabilising shooting is to clear out all the aliens in three separate zones. You must destroy all of them within a certain time limit in order to progress to the next level.

The landscapes take advantage of

of ordinary people" — which is, basically pretty silly because all that is going to happen in thirty three seconds is that I am going to finish writing this sentence. See, told you. Anyway, never mind about all that nonsense. What we have here is a shoot 'em up in the Zaxxon mould — pure and simple. Oh, and there aren't any pop videos in it either.

Leviathan's main selling point is the manoeuvrability of the ship and it genuinely can twist and turn in all directions. It flips — just like the Manta in Uziatom, only it happens in 3D perspective with very impressive animation. It can also roll sideways and attack the ships at the same time. Amiga's superb graphics — really illustrating for the first time the quantum leap in quality between a graphically good 84 game (which Leviathan is) and a graphically good Amiga game.

The first stage is Moonscape with its wispy craters and a metallic blue surface; then comes Cityscape with futuristic buildings and satellite dishes and, best of all, there's Greenscape with statues and a silver surface colour. Each of these zones is stuffed full of vicious aliens. I counted at least ten different types. The most impressive of these are the Delta-shaped fighters and swarming coloured balls. One grip with these aliens is that there is a certain place on the screen where you can fly and then pick the aliens off as they fly into the screen. This makes the game too easy. Of course you don't have to do this — in fact it's really stupid if you do because taking an alien from behind or from the side is much more satisfying.

Leviathan's flight information panel is pretty basic but at least everything on it works and serves a purpose. It includes a timer, number of ships left monitor, height gauge, fuel gauge, and enemy identification window.

The Amiga is desperately short of decent shoot 'em ups so the launch of a new one is an encouraging sign. I can't help thinking however that the design behind Leviathan is just a little bit ambitious. It looks great and sounds OK but I can't see it keeping me up until the small hours.

Jeffrey Archer's books have become best sellers — including Not A Penny More, Not A Penny Less, upon which this adventure is based. After struggling through the book prior to attempting the game, I can't see why. Not particularly well written, the story is extremely contrived, and set in a world far removed from most of its readers — the society rich who aim to make a quick pile for no work, by buying shares after an inside tip-off. But their gamble doesn't pay off. The value of the shares slumps within days of the purchase, a feat engineered by one Harvey Metcalfe, the villain of the piece.

Serves them right for being so greedy and parasitic, I say. Nevertheless, apart from being financially of the screen disappears as soon as RETURN is pressed. True, the last command entered can be recalled by a function key, but that is of little use if different vocabulary is being tested to carry out an action, as the previous unsuccessful attempts cannot be listed. Believe me, the vocabulary is so limited that many tries are often necessary.

All the time this experimentation is going on, or other inappropriate commands are entered, the player is insulted with such replies as STOP WASTING YOUR TIME, and YOU SPEAK A DIFFERENT VERSION OF ENGLISH TO ME.

The next incredible thing to hit the player comes after he has poked up a few items, and tries to list his inventory. There was no command I could find, nor any given in the instructions, to do this. I tried I, INV, INVENT, INVENTORY, TAKE INVENTORY, and LIST, all returning a suitably sarcastic reply.

It appears that items that have been taken cannot be dropped, and easily on in the game, a camera I took from a cupboard was still there when I opened the cupboard again.

Perhaps the worst feature of the game — worse even than the graphics — although admittedly it can be turned off, is the speech. It seems to be emanating from an Upper Class Twit, either brain-damaged, or suffering from an excess of champagne. Thus, when I reached the classic STOP DAWDLIN AND RETURN TO MAGDALEN (you play the part of an Oxford professor) I rushed for the toilet to puke, and even Eugene's promised anecdote of ten pints of brown ale in a public bar, followed by a meat Vindaloo at his place, failed to persuade me to return to the game.

ruined, they feel swindled, and decide to steal back their money from him — a total of £250,000, not a penny more, not a penny less. Let's face it, they're entitled if not honest.

The paperback is included in the package with the adventure game, which is, alas, even worse and had me gasping in disbelief at the obvious ignorance of its programmers.

The first thing to be noticed, is the way the command typed at the bottom

NORD AND BERT COULDN'T MAKE HEAD OR TAIL OF IT

Infocom/Activision
64/128
Price: £24.99
Amiga Disk:
£29.99

Players of Infocom games are no doubt aware of the 'Interactive Fiction' tag put to their games - meaning they are stories. Nevertheless, they are 'adventures' as well, in the general sense of the word, as well as in the computer-game sense. Or at least, they have been until now. The adventure game format is nothing if not flexible, and in Nord and Bert, Infocom have come a long way from the traditional text adventure. Regular fans may, while not disliking this text only game, be rather disappointed that it is not the type of game they have come to know and to love.

Nord and Bert performs almost exactly the same as other Infocom games on screen. It has a parser, and indeed, the method of communicating with it is identical, too.

Eight short 'stories' comprise this little piece of nonsense, for nonsense it is, and nonsense is what it sets out to be. Each story involves the use of wordplay, and the words must be guessed or spotted by the player, to reach the end. A score is registered for each episode, and to complete it, the total must be achieved. The final section cannot be played until all the others, which may be played in any order, have been completed.

The stories are not necessarily logical pieces - rather they are contrived to fit around the use of the puns, sayings, spoonerisms, and other linguistic quirks, that author, Jeff (Ballyhoo) O'Neill has collated, and cunningly interwoven.

The sayings and spoonerisms are good fun, but it's not easy to spot them all. It's even more difficult to spot the Americanisms. In Eat Your Words, for example, much of the time it seems you must be nasty to the waitress in the Teapot Cafe. Reading the sign over the stairs, you see it is marked 'Comesapance'. So you take the sign, and 'Give the waitress her comesapance'. Hmm... Once upstairs, you notice the ceiling is very low, 'hit the ceiling'. I would have preferred to hit the roof. Whilst seated at a table on which sat a salt shaker, I came by a piece of advice. I tried to 'take advice with a pinch of salt', but the program would have none of it. It was looking for the word 'grain' - and no alternative was allowed for those of us who speak English, although, to be fair, had I shaken the shaker (which I didn't the first time round) a grain would have fallen out.

▲ Nord and Bert — roonerisms spule koi

Roy The Farm makes a lot more sense, providing you're the sort who has the wit to put his nose to the grindstone. This little story is well interpreted, and I only came across one phrase that didn't make sense: 'Hit the broad side of the barn'. Would you have thoughts of it, given the context?

The puns in the Shopping Bear, are quite involved, since you not only have to spot the pun, but enter it to change the object into its pun, for use in solving other puns. But would you have spotted 'pudding' for 'putting' as a pun? I didn't!

Spoonerisms, in Shaking A Tower, were my favourite choice. This story has a very complicated sequence featuring a incopard, a book, a bonfire, and an icicle, involving spotting a couple of spoonerisms, examining things, and spoonerising the result!

One story, I didn't find at all amusing. In Act The Part, where you simply take the part of an actor in a farcical sitcom, and carry out corny acts like pulling a whoopee cushion under your stooge. Two points are even gained by being the 'lead' to a couple of 'knock knock' jokes.

And one story I just did not understand at all. A Manor Of Speaking consisted entirely of gems that left me completely cold - despite dipping into the Invisibles built into the

GRAPHICS:	7/10
PLAYABILITY:	7
PUZZLEABILITY:	6
OVERALL:	6

game, inside this crazy house, I found an old empty bottle. Another location had an antique mantelpiece. Seems I should have 'Put the old bottle on the mantel'. And the rest were like that too - I inadvertently can up a point on my score by turning the key in a clock! I can't say I was overcome with mirth!

Full marks to Infocom for branching out with something highly original, and extremely cleverly put together. But don't play Nord and Bert expecting anything like any other Infocom game you've ever played. You won't get it, and you'll be disappointed. Don't play Nord and Bert if English isn't your native tongue. Nord and Bert is a game of American wit. Do play it with a group of friends, perhaps over a few drinks.

Your mission is to find the twelve signs of the Zodiac and deliver them to the evil wizard Rarus, before he destroys your tribe.

The method of solving the rather weak problems in this adventure, is to visit every location possible, pick up everything in sight, and then proceed to open up new exits. Usually, there are some temporary dead ends, which if proceeded beyond, result in instant death. But provided you are carrying the required object, the problem dissolves. Thus it is possible, by chance, to visit the locations in the right order, and walk through much of the game without encountering any difficulties!

▲ In the cellar below the inn in Zodiac

For example, there is a chest in a cottage, which must be unlocked, and hides the exit to a swamp. The swamp cannot be entered without a pair of walies — but you only need to hold them, you don't need to actually side — unless you can find the way out. You must also find the password to take you into Part 2 of the game.

Mundane pictures accompany most of the locations — passages, stairways, and bedrooms make very boring viewing. And there's some odd bugs around — the first bedroom I searched, not only had its own private bathroom, but a bath in the bedroom itself! Strange...

wear them. So if you happen to come across the key and the walies before venturing into the chest, no problem presents itself.

The graphics are small, fairly meaningless pictures surrounded by a rather large border which is identical for every location, except in colour.

A simple adventure, ideal for beginners, but without the necessary mystery and imagination to get them hooked on adventure games.

THE SECRET OF LIFE

This is a three part adventure, involving finding the secret of life in two houses. When you enter the first house, you find the way you came in has vanished, leaving you stuck in-

Try as I might, I found the game unplayable. The combination of colours at a number of locations — green on an orange background — rendered the text completely illegible on my TV, despite adjusting colour, contrast, and brightness in every conceivable combination. And I do not blame the TV, I have been using it to play and review adventures ranging from minor Quilled and GACKed ones, to major Level 9 and Magnetic Scrolls epics, on all manner of computers including the C-64 and Alan ST, for years, with no problems.

Perhaps this might actually be an absorbing game — but I would only recommend it if you are the sort who can solve adventure with your eyes closed.

INTO THE VALLEY VALLEY RESCUE

A CLOSER LOOK AT... SPIDERMAN

At the suggestion of Tony Makos, of Mûnigene, we look at how to attack Questprobe 2 — Spiderman.

The lift shaft goes up three levels from where the game starts, and it is essential to get to the penthouse at the top fairly early on, if you are to progress very far. If you encounter an obstruction in the shaft, remember your spider strength!

Mysterio is an illusion, and cannot be killed. The mirror on his floor, although it may be looked in, is really a red herring, so if you were thinking of doing something clever with it, forget it! Jump to Mysterio's cloud, and do a bit of directional feeling!

Kingmaster is a hypnotist, so don't look at him! Hydromani's state can be changed by a device in the Penthouse, which also houses the (real) formula for making the web fluid. Don't worry about partial success when you make it — that's all you need! Then you will have the means to get the bio-gem, and to pass beyond the fan in the air-conditioning ducts. All you need then, is a shocking experience, and the way out of a weighty problem....

Clues roll down the gentle slopes of The Valley, and they come from far and wide. Turkey was the source of help this month for Ian Covey, who was recently reported struggling against the Wizard Of Akiyyz. Can Octurk wrote from Istanbul with a clue — lock it up in the clues section, Ian Meazwhis. Can himself needs some help! "Where is the second hand of the Harbinger clock in Castle Graydual?" he asks of any adventurer who has mastered Masters Of The Universe.

Craig Matheson of Victoria in Australia, is looking for a good horse, and thinks Ywedeis should help! How? Also in Dodgy Geasers, he wants Cracker to join him! Can he? Should he?

Jonathan, who lives in Codnor in Derbyshire, and whose surname I could not decide, is after some general hints by way of helping him to pinpoint who killed Mr Robnor, in Innocent's Deadline. He can't find the evidence he urgently needs — a cup.

Remember The Quest, a disk adventure from Commodore, often supplied bundled with a disk drive? Paul Kersch of Ingatestone in Essex has been trying to get to grips with it, on and off, for three years. He can't remember how to pass the guard there. How can he get the maker to help him, how can he get the sword, and what can he use against the serpents?

The Valley Rescue Service is here to help lost adventurers find their sanity, and regain their game! You'll find help on this page in the clues section, but if you don't see what you want to know, then simply drop a line to The Valley with your problem.

You won't have to keep your fingers crossed for a reply from a monthly catalogue of readers willing to help — The Valley will reply to you direct, hopefully with a good clue! So send in those problems, and clues, too, if you can, to The Valley, Commodore User, Priority Court, 30-32 Farrington Lane, London EC1R 3AH.

CAMPBELL'S COMMENT

Adventurers are extremely friendly towards one another. They have to be — everyone needs a few friends. If you spend most of your life spreading death, destruction, and frustration, around the population at large, from whom else are you likely to be able to get a bit of sympathy and understanding?

Content in the knowledge that the worst thing likely to happen might be the firing of a water pistol, or the release of a rather dim hamster at the meal table, I suggested to a very select group of adventurers that we get together for dinner at this year's Personal Computer World show. Fergus McNeill of Delta 4 and his right-hand enchanteress, Anna Fopless, toured Olympia to sound out support. Co-ordinating the effort at "ADBN HQ on the Commodore User stand, I was soon presented with a long list of potential hangers, and not the slightest idea of where to go!

And so it was, that on the Thursday evening, The Warwick Arms was where ADBN commenced. We started off in a small group at the Warwick Road end of the bar, and gradually the pub got fuller. We got Fuller, too, as those Nord And Serr players who drink London Pride will realize!

Ten pound notes soon started flying into the kitty at the speed of a 1541, as Pete and the Austins arrived, followed by Ym Gilbert and his fine feathered pen. Close on their heels came Danael (The Defector) Gilbert, and Adrian Boff, late and sometimes of Valley Rescue and CU's famous Play To Win series. We had been imbibing happily for some time, when it came to our notice that contrary to our belief, the other half of our group had actually arrived before us, and had been enjoying a side party at the far end of the bar!

Lured only by the glint of the kitty, we were joined by Fergus and Anna, Paul Coppins of Ranburd, C+VG Helpline and Valley Rescue expert, and Christian Mortensen — adventure writer and Deputy Editor of the Danish magazine Computer. More and yet more adventurers poured in. Ken Gordon from Magnetic Scrolls brought the husky Anja's apologies, but left her sore throat behind in favour of Rod Sieglar, author of the plant pot plant in plant pot plot. Close behind were Mr and Mrs Zork themselves. Dave Lebling and his wife Janet. Gosh! Fergus had travelled far and wide to drum up support!

Just as we thought we were safe, straight from Ireland came the two schoolmarm from St. Brides, the Misses Priscilla Langridge and Marianne Scourie. So, stuffing a few dozen Hintabests down the backs of our trousers just in case, we ordered another round! Not as good as pos-teen, we were assured!

With so many adventurers gathered together under one roof, we knew how the Royal family all travelling on the same Air Zalapaga flight must feel. Being adventurers, we openly stood on the pavement for a group photo, aware that had we been suddenly tapped by a raiding party from the ARC(FR)NCE (arcaders do) just up the road, it would have spelled instant death to Adventure as the punters know it. But we had cheated. We might have appeared courageous to the casual observer, but we had, in fact, secretly executed a RAM SAVE before venturing outside!

Making a move now, our party honored S.W.E.W.E.W.S to the Bistro Benito, in Earls Court Road. Perhaps it wasn't merely luck that caused Benito to allocate us a room to ourselves. Let's face it, it was at the back, out of sight of potential clients passing by. We prepared to sit down to a hearty meal, but not before two of our party had mistaken the Goddess Model teleprinter upstairs for a Gents toilet, and narrowly escaped transportation to Probos, and the brass incincloth treatment.

It was an evening never to be forgotten! Fergus and Anna announced their engagement. Dave Lebling gave us a treatise on parsers entitled The Guild Of Thieves Scanner. Paul Coppins found a bug in Mike Austin's soup, and we all laughed like drains at those dreadful Quilled adventures!

After the event, Anna donated the remains of the beer kitty — over £30 — to the NSPCC.

NEWS

Three more horrors

CRL have more adventures lined up to send a chill down your spine. St. Brides' Jack The Ripper, due any time now, will be followed by another Rod Pike horror — Wolf Man. If that isn't enough to keep horror fans going, there's more to come! CRL have Jekyll and Hyde lined up for anyone who has not been scared to death by the first two!

From Darkness Into Light is another title planned by CRL, written by ex-Delta 4 member, Judith Childs. A Quilled adventure, it involves the player, taking the role of a woman, in returning a stolen chalice to a church.

Less Kerovnia

After The Pawn, and Guild Of Thieves, Magnetic Scrolls will be taking a rest from Kerovnia tales. Assassin is the working title of their next adventure, set in modern times.

Upon Westminster Bridge, planned as a text-only adventure, and Anita Sinclair's own pet project, is not likely to see the light of day until about this time next year.

WIN a Disk Drive

Rainbird Adventures are flying the flag for Britain in the face of 400 competitors from the US, from the likes of Infocom, Origin, and many others. Titles like The Prince and the Child of Thieves have netted a handful of awards, for Macintosh, Spectrum, and Rabbit. The range also includes the excellent Legend of Heroes, Silver Dragon, Night Owl, and Legions of Darkness.

The more copies of Rainbird adventures are available in the States, as well as the Commodore 64.

Now we are giving you the chance to win the contents of a Rainbird adventure — enough puzzles and plot twists to make you want to keep on trying to solve the game.

But that is not all we are offering. To make adventure at its best, you may want to own a disk drive, so should you be the lucky winner of our Disk Drive, as well, Rainbird offers you a chance to win a Commodore 1281 disk drive.

How To Win

We have devised a short advertisement based on the CU office. Using your own imagination, house and knowledge of the CU crew, we want you to tell us what the true outcome was to the incident described below. Chinese who you think have passed from the phone numbers one to three had told us whether you own Legend of Heroes, Silver Dragon, Legend of Heroes, Commodore Music, Princess of the Desert, Legend of Heroes, Commodore Music, Princess of the Desert, 30-32 Commodore Music, London, £275 38U.

Don't forget to include a complete and address and a reminder of our office must arrive by December 31 (or at least post marked that date) — in view of the Xmas postage backlog.

By the way, before you go... The CU crew are different and peeping into a mine. On their 1) Legend of Heroes to Entertainment Computer Forum to book the price of a round 2) copy the extremely full advertisement for us 3) anyone £3 from the extremely well off advertising Manager of our mid-day sister publication CU 4) CU.

The Legend of Heroes is becoming with city guests. Customers are not the deep of the bar, there are no recent arrivals. The only one is behind for CU crew — back out through the door. There is an unusual event with their work. A full sentence finishes every in the party and Black Panther notices that it has nine angles waiting to be won.

What happens next?

Do the CU crew any and gamble on the outcome in the hopes of winning the prize of the final round? 1) Find a hot, crowded pub or 2) Find some secret treasure maps from the Legend of Heroes and bustle of the bar?

If you think you know how the CU crew think that get your answers in now. This is a true story and the real solution is hidden to a select few employees in a locked cupboard in the bar's upstairs flat in London.

There are some clues — the CU crew are busy, professional and don't agree with the manager's "Theater is gambler just a leader be".

Rumbled

● I wasorrified to see that the vñrnks of mi valorte kolunimtz, Keith Campbell, vos out to only von pampnik in the October Communist User. And then I buy the new Computer + Socialist Games and to mi amazement, your capitalist advertisement for CU does not even mention this great writer. Idyotz of the likes of Mike Pattenden, Ferdy Hamilton and Nick Kelly are featured. Etenski Gary Penn, the arch-vally, who you slag down for muntz as being krap, you give the accolade. But the old valorita of mine, the von ant only Adventure vntor vnt has any sense, vor him you do not give the fig. If that list ow your maganinik is going to be, then sob off — vot more can I say! D. Spustod, Dubrovnik.

Your are Keith Campbell and we claim our pint comrade.

Complaint

● This is the first time I've written to your magazine and it's to complain about people complaining about complaining. It is our right to complain about anything at all, no matter how ridiculous. People might even write in to complain about me complaining about complaining about complaining, which sounds very complex but just take a deep breath and read it slowly and you'll probably understand it sooner or later.

The Indiana Jones advert seems to have been made to catch the eye of female readers, Indy's shirt is open the knee of his trousers is rigid and he's swinging his bullwhip around. It's disgusting, it should be banned, disgusting smut like that.

Acknowledgements. This letter was made possible by the following:

J. Tierney (He's my father) — for giving me the note paper and the envelope.

B. M. Tierney (she's my mother) — for the lend of her pen.

The Post Office — for the stamp, and the CU crew — for printing it.

The contents of this letter are based on fact, any resemblance to fictional people or events are strictly on purpose.

J. Tierney, Co. Dubán.

This reply was made possible by the letters Ed (who wrote it), the typesetters (who probably splay it wrongly) the printers (who printed it) and your newsagent.

Phewee Huey

● I have recently upgraded from a CG4 to an Amiga 500 and feel that I must write about your review of Super Huey for the Amiga in the October issue.

In the review, Francis Jago stated that the game did not work properly with Kickstart 1.2 and that he needed to use kickstart 1.1. This means that Super Huey can not be used on either the A500 or A2000 models of the Amiga as these machines have Kickstart 1.2 on ROM and cannot use Kickstart 1.1.

I would like to make the following points:

1. Surely your review should have pointed out that A500 users would not be able to use this particular game.
2. Why are US Gold releasing a game now which won't run on the A500 (I suspect that the answer to this is that the game was released in America some time ago before the new Amigas were on the market.)
3. Does the packaging for Super Huey state that it is for the A1000 only? If not, will retailers be prepared to exchange it for another game if A500 owners buy it?
4. Are there any other games which will not run with Kickstart 1.2? If so, could Commodore User publish a list of them, and are the software companies going to produce new versions that will run on the A500?

The other comments in your review were sufficient to deter me from buying Super Huey anyway, but this problem could easily have happened with a good game!

I look forward to further Amiga coverage/reviews in future issues!

Gareth Kitchener, Hitchin, Herts.
Super Huey, US Gold assure us, will load on the A500.

PCW Show

I thought I would express my delight (not the margarine type) about the 10th year PCW show. It was brilliant, far better than any Commodore show and even better than last year's show which I thought was not possible.

Games were about £6 each. Some, if you could find the right stand were about £30/£4. Each stand gave away posters, some about three, also if you asked they would give you badges. Probable the biggest posters I received were Bangkok Nights and the Rampage poster (about 4 5 feet tall).

The stands were great, all arcade games were on free play. On the Gremlin stand there was a TV with a gremlin on talking to people. My friend told the gremlin that he was stupid, the gremlin told my friend that he was about to turn into a sausage.

The last stand I went to was the good old C.U. stand. There I met Eugene Lacey, I had a long chat with him about Mega Apocalyse and how good it was. I then bought a C+VG and let him

We're glad we make life worth living. Mike gets the same feeling when faced by a cheese and pickle roll. Now the answers: (1) See Aaargghh! (2) We don't have any group photos — only Mike is of pin-up quality (who wrote this? Ed). (3) You get all we've got. (4) Show off! (5) We have loads. (6) You're a credit to your school your parents and the Model Railway Society of Great Britain. (7) Bye to UZ.

Offended

I am writing to complain about Virgin's new game How To Be a Complete Bastard. I feel the title of this game is very upsetting. I think it is badly named. I therefore think the title should be withdrawn.
M. Birch Havant, Hants.

The title is based on a book — would you have that withdrawn too? We realise the word has unfortunate connotations but it does seem to have become part of vernacular.

Cheek

Did you know that the cover of your May 1987 issue, incidentally drawn by Angus Fieldhouse, also appears on the front cover of the new Games Workshop/Avalon Hill "Rune Quest" Supplement "Land of Ninja"?

Why do two publications have the same cover? Please explain.
*Martin Nunn
St Albans, Herts*
We can't. What a cheek! But the fact is CU only owns first copyright on the artwork. What Angus does with it afterwards is his business.

Dull life

I just thought that I would inform you that your mag is cool, especially Arcades. As there are no decent arcades near me I will never have a go on many of the new ones. As you can see my life is boring. The only thing that can liven it up is Commodore User. I get £1.50 a week for pocket money, so I have a careful look through your reviews and at Buzz so I don't pick a bad game.

Right now for something completely different.
1. Thank you Nick Kelly for a brilliant Afterburner review and thanks to whoever wrote the Indiana Jones preview. I will probably go out and buy it now.
2. Please, please, please can you send me a signed photo of the team?
3. Please add more free photos.

Aaarggh!

I have recently purchased Indiana Jones and the Temple Of Doom from Boots the only computer stockists in our town. From your preview it sounded quite good, but to my surprise it wasn't that good at all. The graphics were O.K. and the gameplay, but what p@ed me off was the fact that it was a mult load! Aaaaargh! God I hate them damn things!

"The Mail Must Get Through"
"456"

And another thing! After you've been killed you have to rewind it and go through it, again! So this is a kind of warning to the sane British Public, do not buy this game!

Garry Dobson
E. Yorkshire

You should have waited for the final review where the Ed himself pointed out this defect. We've got a disk drive so we don't care.

Do it

I'm writing concerning the coin-op conversion by US "how to ruin another game" Gold of Out Run. In particular J. G. Homer's remarks on the subject. Does he own a ZX80 or a Commodore 64? He seems to think just because of the Amiga the C64 is obsolete.

It is quite obvious why US Gold should bother converting it. The 64 can do it.

1. Music, though not up to the standard at the coin-op could still be extremely good, especially if someone like Rob Hubbard does it.

2. Hydraulics. Is J. G. Homer serious? I for one got hooked on the stand-up version.

3. Superfast graphics. You just have to look at something like Super Cycle to see how fast graphics on the 64 can be. The actual quality of the graphics, though again, not as good as the original, could still be very good.

4. If they do manage to do all this (and there is no reason why they shouldn't be able to) it will probably have to be a multitoad. If it is it should use the Dragon Load from Singe's Castle, or if they can't manage that it should have some good music in between loads like The Last Ninja.

So US Gold take heed!!!!

David Jenkins
Hatfield, Herts

Get all that Geoff!

Gants Hilliard

After reading your review of Renegade in the October issue I felt I must write in and ask a few questions.

1. Gants Hill tube station. You mean the one on the Central Line right near where I live? If you do I don't quite think there are any blood thirsty knife wielding yobs, in fact us Gants Hilliards are quite nice people.

2. Mike, do you live in Gants Hill? If so come round one day for a real laugh. Bring the whole team.

3. I never saw you at PCW Mike, why not? Loads of us Gants Hillians were there.

The CU stand was great. I got loads of back numbers and I loved WEC Le Mans. Is Battleships really dumped? I was really looking forward to getting it. If it is why did you have an ad in the October issue, the issue where you said that it was dumped?

Jai Pushkin
Ilford, Essex

The story was true. MP comes from Goodmays, Ilford not Gants Hill but he lives there no longer (phew! MP). He was at the PCW Show — blagging free drinks at Firebird and Elite most of the time. Battleships (64) is dumped, though 16 bit versions are planned and the 64 version may well turn up on a compilation soon. As for Kari — it's a mystery! Try Hotshots.

Smiths reply

I write in reference to Jose Thomas' letter in your October 1987 issue about Smiths.

I used to work in a W. H. Smiths Software Dept and when this situation cropped up we used to issue a written VAT receipt for the non-faulty game thus solving the problems of two games on one receipt.

I can only assume that the branch he went to were being awkward and suggest he asks them for a VAT receipt next time.

Adam Penn
Luton, Beds
We're just incredibly depressed at their splitting up. No VAT receipt could ever bring Morrissey and Marr back for us.

Punishment

This letter is dedicated to "Mad" Mike Patterson. In September's Hotshots you asked the readers to suggest a punishment for Nick "Double dealer" Kelly. Everybody knows that the interview with Tony Cottee should have been given to a football expert like you, not to a birdbrain like Kelly.

Here are my suggestions:

1. Chop his head off, and use it as a football.
2. Force him to play Imagine's Super Soccer, while you are sitting next to him playing Californian Games.

This punishment might not be so original, but it's good enough to make even the toughest beach-bum go bananas.

Can I have the Hotshots special prize now?

Thomas Brekk Utmyk
C. J. Hambros v. 1
Norway

No, the punishment is still too light. I want his whole family destitute, his dog dead, his girlfriend to leave him and the wing to fall off a Jumbo jet and hit him on the head as he breaks all live strings on his guitar. Only then will I be satisfied — MP.

Sound

I am writing to complain about the sound rating given to ACE II in your October issue.

OK, the sound FX might be dull and unrealistic, but surely your reviewer must have noticed the excellent piece of Rob Hubbard music. The music, in my opinion, is one of Rob Hubbard's most exciting and amazing pieces. And it deserves at least 7 or 8 out of 10.

I like the music so much that I have recorded it on audio tape and I listen to it every day on my way to college.

Oh, by the way, have you heard the music from Firebird's Arcade Classics? Again, it is by Rob Hubbard, but this piece will make you start head-banging. I'm not joking — Rob Hubbard has made the 64 sound like a heavy metal rock band. Absolutely amazing stuff!

Fu San Li

Crews, Cheshire

Arcade classics is pretty damn raunchy but we wouldn't listen to it on the way in work. The Ed listens to Bruce Springsteen. Hotshots favours the Smiths (wimp that he is) and Nick Kelly listens to himself all the time. What an egomaniac!

Gopherit

Ref: Will Henderson of Angus, Scotland, letter in the last issue (October). Kill the Gopher. You dare. Anyway what gopher? There's no gopher on Roland Rat. I bet your talking about that lovely charming, beautiful, furry little Gopher, Gordon who appears with Philip Schofield on Going Live.

A Gordon the Gopher fan.
Andrew "Don't kill the Gopher", Sabryan.
Kill Philip Schofield we say.

DRUID 2

The Enlightenment

Continuing our series of hints and tips with the programmers of the game we asked Tony Beckworth, Firebird's head of games development for his advice on how to play Druid II. A map of all the levels and captions on each should help even the clumsiest of wizards attain enlightenment.

LAND OF RUINS

This is the village of Ishmar from where the game starts. Its best to collect the three keys in the village and the DEATHLAND spell from the south-west.

THE DESERT

ARMOUR and INVISIBILITY can be found in the north-east. Then destroy the Demon Prince (fire at it and cast DEATHLAND). Move north-far-west and get another DEATHLAND.

PLAY TO WIN

LAND OF FIRE

Two resurrection spells can be found in this land towards the south. Only cast one of them, so that should you die, you will be re-born. But the most important spell of all can be found at the north, guarded by a Demon Prince. Destroy him, and the White Orb is yours.

ROCKLANDS

As you enter at the south of this level, get the key to your east, then move to the north-east of the land and get the CREATE LIGHT spell. At the far north-west of the land you will find a door leading north. Go through it and you will find yourself in...

THE DARK CAVERNS

This level is totally dark so you must cast a CREATE LIGHT spell so that you can see your way through the caves. You need the HORN spell from within these caverns (you will understand why later!) Through the maze you must find your way to the north of the caves where you will find yourself back at Ishmar. Now you must go east to the Swamp.

THE SWAMP

A couple of Kraken elementals can be found on this level to protect you. Now head north into The Land of Water.

THE LAND OF WATER

There is a pier to the far-east of this land. Blowing the HORN here will summon the Grim Reeper to take you across to Acamantor's Dark Tower. But first you need money.

THE LAND OF FUNGUS

Moving mushrooms will poison you. If you are poisoned, then you will have a race against time to find an ANTIDOTE.

THE SNOWLANDS

Go across the northern bridge and fight the Demon Prince then fight past the animated statues until you reach the door that leads to the north-west. Here you will find a COIN which can be used to pay the Grim Reeper, so return to the pier in the land of Water and blow the HORN. You will now be ferried to ...

THE LOWER DUNGEON

There's no turning back now! Move North and then East to get a RESURRECTION spell. Cast this straight away. Now find your way to the stairs that lead up to the next level of the castle but be careful, because they are guarded by a Demon Prince.

THE TOP OF THE CASTLE

Some of the floors on this level are trapped and will drain your energy. Many keys can be found to the west. A TELEPORT spell and a RESURRECTION can be found in the room with four doors. When you have them, go east, where you will find a strange door leading out of the side of the castle. But this is the top of the castle.

THE CASTLE

Even more animated statues and yet another Demon Prince to fight past. You can't run past this Demon, so you'll definitely need a DEATHLAND spell. Carrying on up the castle stairs will lead to . . .

THE FINAL NIGHTMARE

You will find yourself teleported into Acamantor's nightmare world. Here at last you will find the evil that you have come to destroy. But Acamantor's minions will make a final deadly onslaught. Acamantor himself can be destroyed with the WHITE ORB spell and your Druid will receive ENLIGHTENMENT!

THE INTER WARP LEVEL

You must find your way through this mystic maze but you will find no exits. The only way out is through magic. You must cast your TELEPORT spell from the magic symbol at the middle of the maze.

TOTAL BACKUP POWER Now ACTION REPLAY

NOW EVEN MORE POWERFUL, MORE FRIENDLY AND WILLING

ONLY
£29.99
POST FREE

Action Replay works by taking a 'SNAPSHOT' of the program in memory so it doesn't matter how the program was loaded - from tape or disk - at normal or turbo speed.

• WARP 25. THE WORLD'S FASTEST SERIAL DISK TURBO - NOW EVEN FASTER! LOADS 200 BLOCKS IN 6 SECONDS! 240 BLOCKS IN 7 SECONDS!

(That's even faster than some parallel systems. Built into the cartridge - no extra hardware or software required. Includes superload, warptape, stretch, floppy-converter. Integrated with normal disk turbo for superior reliability - zero distress wars, or no-rival format so no special load commands are required. Turbo and Warp 25 speed are entirely independent of the cartridge with SUPERBOOT.)

• SIMPLE TO USE: Just press the button and make a complete backup - THEN TO DISK, tape to tape, disc to tape, disc to disc. THE PROCESS IS AUTOMATIC - JUST GIVE THE BACKUP A NAME.

• TURBO RELOAD. All backups will reload at turbo speed. COMPLETELY INDEPENDENTLY OF THE CARTRIDGE.

• SPRITE MILLER. Make it small/invisible. Disable sprite collision - works with most programs.

• PRINTER DUMP. Freeze any game and print out the screen.

Eg. loading picture, high score screens etc. Works with most printers. MSX, Atari, Walk Star, Epson etc. Double size. 16 shades, reverse print option. Very versatile - no user knowledge required.

• PICTURE SAVE. Save any 8-line multicolour screen in disk at the push of a button. Compatible with Blazing Paddles, Koolha, Asterix, Image System, etc.

• SPRITE MONITOR. Unique Sprite monitor allows you to freeze the action and view all the sprites, watch the sprite animation, save to delete any sprite. Load sprites from one game into another to make customised programs.

• PORESCHENT MODE. Press the button and enter those prices for extra lives etc., then restart the program to make a backup. Ideal for casual games.

• MULTITAPES TRANSFER. Even transfers multistage programs from tape to disk. The extra parts fast load - a unique feature. Enhancement disk available for non-standard multi-loaders (see below).

• SUPER COMPACTOR. Ultra efficient program compaction techniques. Each program saved as a single file. 2 programs per disk side - 4 programs per disk, if you use both sides.

• TEXT MODIFY. Change title screens, high score screens etc. Put your own name into a game then restart it to make a backup to tape or disk. Very simple to use.

• MONITOR. Full feature 'Flamingo' type MACIONE CODE MONITOR. All standard features plus memory to re-assemble, disassemble, hex dump, transfer, cut/paste, fill, hunt, number conversion, bank switching, relocate, load/save etc. Uses no memory. Full printer support.

• DISK MONITOR. A special monitor for use on the RAM inside your disk drive. All the usual backing incl.

• WHOLE DISK COPY. Copy a full unprotected disk to under two minutes with only one drive.

• FAST FILE COPY. Works with standard and Warp 25 files of up to 240 blocks. Converts between to and from Warp 25.

• FAST FORMAT. Under 20 seconds.

• TOOLKIT COMMANDS. A whole range of useful new commands including: AUTO LINE NUMBERING, DELETE, MERGE, APPEND, OLD, LINESAVE, etc. FRIENDLILIST - list any program (including directory) directly from disk to printer or screen without corrupting memory.

• REDEFINED FUNCTION KEYS. Single stroke commands for operation of many common commands including LOAD, SAVE, DIR. Load from directory - can read to type in Rhinoware.

• TAPE TURBO. Designed to make turbo loaders for your own programs. No screen blanking during loading.

HOWEVER! all features are built in and available at the touch of a key. All features work with both TAPE and DISK. (Except multipart transfer & disk file utility).

ENHANCEMENT DISK

Contains routines for transferring many of the non-standard multi-load games from tape to disk. Over 40 titles. Latest additions are LARRY NODDY, ROAD RUNNER (infinite lives option), BLOOD 'N' GUTS (play any event), DECEPTOR, LEADERBOARD EXEC and WORLD CLASS, KILLED UNTIL DEAD, MASK, INDIANA JONES, EXPLOSION, TAIPAN, plus all the classics including SUMMER GAMES, WORLD CHAMP, DRAGONS LAIR 1 and 2, CRUNTYLET, SUPERCYCLE etc. Works in conjunction with ACTION REPLAY.

Disk includes GRAPHIC SLEDSHOW for displaying pictures saved with ACTION REPLAY. You Warp 25 Superboot - non Action Replay owners can speed up their 'expert' or 'breeze machine' programs to see what they have been missing.

DEEP SCAN BURST NIBBLER™

The most powerful disk nibbler available anywhere, at any price!

Burst Nibbler is actually a pen part system - software package and a parallel cable to connect the 1541/1570/1571 to 94/128 (state type)

What gives Burst Nibbler its power? Conventional nibblers have to decode the data from the disk before it can be read using the serial bus - when non standard data is encountered they are lost. Burst Nibbler transfers data as raw OCR code via the parallel cable without the need to decode it, you get a perfect copy of the original.

Will nibble up to 41 tracks

Copy a whole disk in under 2 minutes

Full instructions

Regular updates - we always ship the latest

Piled in minutes - no soldering usually required

Full or 1/4 tracks

No need to buy parallel cable if you have disk drives. Dolphin etc.

Cable has through-hole connectors for other add-ons

Whether to choose BurstNibbler or Burst Nibbler? Best Hack Kit is unbeatable value as an 'all rounder' - with nibblers, 1 or 2 drives may focus, the copy 1073 copy etc. etc. so if you have a more general requirement perhaps BurstNibbler is for you. Burst Nibbler is a pure nibbler second to none, for the reasons stated. So if it's just making backups you are interested in, then go to other products to beat it.

ARCADE

Tokyo's JARIMA Show (Japanese Amusement Machinery Manufacturers' Association) is probably the most important arcade exhibitor in the world. The Japanese have consistently pushed the frontiers of gaming technology forward. Ten years ago it was Space Invaders; then they introduced simulators, sit-in cabinets and laser discs. Each innovation was unveiled at the JARIMA to a rapturous reception. We saw an astonished and jet-lagged Mike Patterson at the 25th exhibition with a fistful of Yen, a plane ticket and a change of socks with the instruction 'bring us the word on the new wave of coin-ops.' Here's the story...

I thought I would already have had enough excitement in my life, but I was wrong. I was in Tokyo for the 25th JARIMA Show, and I was in for a real treat. The show was held at the Nippon Budokan, a large arena that has been the site of many important events in Japanese history. I was in luck, as the show was held on a Friday night, and I was able to see the show without any of the usual crowds. The show was a real treat, and I was able to see many of the latest arcade games. I was in luck, as the show was held on a Friday night, and I was able to see the show without any of the usual crowds. The show was a real treat, and I was able to see many of the latest arcade games.

FINAL LAP

It was Namco's Pole Position which led the way for grand prix arcade games. Their latest, Final Lap, makes it look prehistoric. Whilst you can't expect the kind of eight machine link-up I saw, Final Lap makes a challenging game on its own. The graphics are in the same class as Out Run and WEC with great attention to detail on the cars so that they closely resemble the Molarens and Williams of the Formule One cars. There's much more detail on the course as well with grandstands and scenery based on the Suzuka circuit. Mansell crashed on in practice to lose a chance of the World Championship. He could do a lot worse than practice on this, it's going to be big.

CYBER TANK

There have been tank games in the past, but there has never been anything quite like Cyber Tank. It begins with the racing consoles and puts a tank simulation on the top. You get a two player game and a cabinet of enormous proportions. One player can sit in and the other can stand on the step behind and fire the gun mounted in front of the screen. Operation Wolf-style. The screen view also follows recent developments two scenes having been joined together for a wide-angle view of the streets your tank rumbles along. Gameplay is average however because it lacks the frenetic pace of something like Operation Wolf and the graphics are a bit murky. Could be a white elephant, but might succeed on novelty value.

fyover) is akin to a scene from "Bad Company" with its heroic streets, neon signs, and the city. This might be a bit of a stretch, but little else is wrong. They've got a lot of some 16 music to go with the road. It's not hard to play, and if you want to play it on the home console, you can.

It's a bit of a shame that the game is only available on the home console, but it's a bit of a shame that the game is only available on the home console. Rainbow Islands the Bubble Bobble sequel.

HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMP

If you're a champ then you're going to find a lot of trouble with Heavyweight Champ. Like Lightning in Street Fighter II, makes you feel physically involved in the action in a way no game has ever done before. Each's more exciting game because it's not about simulation, it's about anything else because it asks that you take the control in a huge, robust-looking thing with a general top and feet handles extending from the front. Back, then and push from the opponents in a constant state of confusion. That's the idea. Make your big back as you like the front. Knock, punch and hold response to your movements, even to the point that when you adjust the padded left and right, he will shrink, sway, lean—the opponents' reaction. Heavyweight Champ asks you to beat four opponents the way to the title and that's what it's all about. It's not just a matter of fact and calculation, it's your manager to take in the ring but more than a simple fight. Designed to be a classic, it's the classic that takes the mainstream.

GRAY OUT

Jet fighter sims are set to become the rage with the success of After Burner and Gray Out is the best to enter into the dogfight. You fly something better than your F-16 at the usual eye blurringly fast speed just land on sea blasting every thing in sight. The drama about Gray Out is that it turns out to be more playable than After Burner. In my opinion the maze game is just too difficult and fast to really give you the feeling you are in control. Tatum's machine does everything After Burner does but you feel you have a chance with it. The graphics are not quite as good but then again probably justifying the best game ever conceived. Nevertheless, even if the machine you fly through sea sight, I particularly like the interface with its sky-scramble that can occur by between and the direct sea the sea in the sea. It is a new game just before the year 2000. A game of the future. (Copyright 1990 Sega Corp.)

ARCADES

As Mike "Bite Yer Legs" Pattenen will tell you, I am not generally considered to be one of the world's living experts on the game of Association Football. So as you can imagine, fitting another with the money judgement of Japanese West Ham, Essex City, Rangers and QPR supporters collectively known as "The Village Bitchers" (The Village of Dagenham) into a machine whose pattern can be a fairly and depressing experience for a moment from who will very recently was under the mislead impression that Haggie or Waddle was the latest genre to be "kicked" into the linear instant music experience zone.

But now, it just, I have something to promise me in my own mind, I may not know much about football, but I know much about the programming of Free Kick. I mean, whoever heard of super teams of twenty six players playing against one solitary player with a goal robot that tries as hard as the opponents? And whoever heard of a goalie incorporating a "kick" game which is just? But enough of this hair-splitting. Free Kick may fall down a bit on the screen detail, but its match performance is well up to scratch.

Free Kick is on first appearances a fairly sophisticated Amiga-only soccer simulation. You control a ball at the bottom of the screen with which you bounce a small football up at a bunch of hovering soccer players — except that instead of musing about the placidly idly and kicking stikers who just on the edge of the box, these lack part of what can only be described as a synchronized swimming interpretation, including (and the pitch is an impressively symmetrical) display.

You've got to hit each of them twice to get rid of them. All except two, of the right side. In this middle pile are indestructible, and send any ball that hits 'em a three-way spinning back to you, usually at a fairly angle after a considering the two between themselves. If you're the ball kick you can't move in and a kick down.

But there's more. Although you can't, if you're a full player type, "kick" the screen of all the other players' (except the two) independently in order to move on to the next screen, you can also jump the gun by scoring goals.

There's a goal at the top of the screen, you see, guarded by a really cool keeper. If you manage to get the ball past him you get the back of the net, a chair (or cup) as in the game granted the sight of an ungracious message.

Goal Shot? If you manage to score one more goal than the number of the screen you reach it is, above two goals on level 1, three goals on level 2, etc. (then you immediately move on to the next level) and maybe more with a different arrangement of players.

You're unlikely to be able to score a goal while the ball is cluttered up with other players, but as the game wears on and your opponent tries to, you have a better chance of an unobstructed shot. It's then that you can try to score of Free Kick's nearest feature — the free kick. By pressing the while holding the appropriate joystick, the ball's movement after it's left your ball. This means that with practice, timing, finesse and even the occasional goalkeeping help, you're allowed to win just the game and score.

There are two: a Goalie of other side with goals to win it to keep you quieting. Every so often though the other will start a few minutes of your team. If you manage to "kick" the ball to him, he'll do the damndest to lower it past the keeper. You are also awarded the occasional free kick, which the Goalie claims to allow you one clean shot at goal. And finally there's a mole who sometimes pops, he rises up in the middle of the pitch, pushing your well-aimed shot back towards your own goal line.

Yes, Free Kick isn't what it is or wasn't? Well, it's not exactly technical, but it is a seriously fun game. It's got all the components of Amiga, and for more charm. You, this is a great! If you're, I'm not online my side the reason.

ARCADES PIT STOP

"Woahhhhhhaarrggghhh! That was close!" Johnny Dumfries takes his hand from his eyes and to his great relief finds that the taxi driver has missed the young lad who dashed in front of him. He had a good try but the kid was too quick.

We're on the way to London's Family Leisure arcade centre so that the racing driver can have a spin on some of the superb driving machines in there.

We settle uneasily back in our seats after the near miss and discuss racing. Johnny Dumfries, the Earl of Dumfries to you, has been racing since 1980 when he started, like many drivers, in 100cc karts. By 1983 he was racing in Formula 3, and a year later he had won the British Championship. It was only a matter of time before he turned to Formula 1 and in 1985 he signed for Ferrari before going on to partner Ayrton Senna on Lotus. A year later he was unceremoniously dropped from the team to make way for inexperienced Japanese driver Nakajima. Is he bitter about that?

"No not really, it's just one of those things. It was no reflection on me, Honda were supplying the engines and they wanted a Japanese driver."

Ah, yes Honda. They have a particularly bad name in this country after their machinations with Nigel Mansell. There were suggestions that they tampered with Mansell's engine to stop him winning the World Championship. Would they stoop to this?

"Oh yes, definitely! There are no scruples in Formula 1. I'm not saying they did of course, there's no way of telling, but it's easily done. It's even possible for the engine management technicians to control aspects of the car from the pits.

Why should they want to do that when only Williams were capable of winning the championship?

"Well Piquet went to Williams from Brabham on Honda's request. He already had two Championships under his belt and it represented more kudos to win again, especially since he still has now signed for Lotus who still have their engines next year.

"Mansell was desperately unlucky not to win it anyway, he had some terrible luck."

Dumfries could have returned to the Grand Prix scene next year. "I had a few offers, but I've signed instead for Jaguar and I'm going for the World Sports Car Championship instead."

He's also working for Codemasters advising them on the batch of racing games they have planned, the first of which is Grand Prix Simulator. The budget company claim they are going for arcade quality on future 16 bit releases. So we're on the way to an arcade to put his skills to the test on some of the very machines Codemasters want to try to emulate.

We start out with Out Run. Dumfries climbs into the machine and assumes a very serious posture. The Ferrari hand-brake turns on the line and he's away speeding through the traffic like he's played it a hundred times before, negotiating that whiplash bend before the end of the first stage with consummate ease. Stage two follows and he opts for the stone colonades which whip towards you at blurringly fast speed. Then, disaster! His eyes go funny and wallop, he hits one. Seconds later and he's done it again and run out of time before the second section.

"That's fantastic I never realised they had machines that could do that now. I've seen those old ones like Pole Position, but that's incredible and it's funny too."

We shift over to the WEC Le Mans console. "Now I have seen this one. I saw it at the Motor Show. It's extremely impressive, the cars look just like the real thing, and I love the way it changes from day to night."

He climbs into the machine and punches the start button and begins to weave his way through the back markers, hands at a copybook ten-to-two. He's well into the third stage when disaster strikes. He hits a kerb, overcorrects and goes into a body roll that sends the console whirling around wildly.

"That was a bit violent — but it's a brilliant game."

I lead him over to Super Hang On and whack a fifty pin in. I go first and put in my normal average-to-poor effort. Dumfries takes over and powers through level one stabbing the turbo button in all the right places.

"I like the way they've added this button, it's like the boost knob on a Formula 1 car."

Shortly though his effort ends in a ball of flames as his dazed rider crawls away from the wreck.

"That's brilliant, better than the other bike game," he says pointing at an old Bike Hang On. "I love the way the bike banks, it's very authentic. I'm also a bit of a bike fan, I used to ride them when I was younger."

Which game does he rate the best?

"Well they're all very, very good, but I have to go for Out Run because of the way the console tips, it's more realistic than the circular effect of WEC Le Mans. They're definitely all tougher than the real thing."

With that we shake hands. Johnny Dumfries draws a deep breath and takes his life in someone else's hands by heading off for a taxi.

MEGA-WINNER

With an Amiga 500 up for grabs we prepared the office for the onslaught. Entries were everywhere — in people's drawers (no-er), Mike's Branson pickle jar, Nelly's guitar case, the Ed's executive toilet. You couldn't move for them. What a relief to judge them. The lucky winner was one Christian Panzani of Luton who suggested that Freddy Krueger from 'Nightmare on Elm Street' would make a good Amiga game. Although I was sorely tempted to announce Mike Pattenden as the winner with the suggestion of 'Lovejoy' as a computer game.

WATCHING THE WILDLIFE

Make us laugh and you'll get a Sony Watchman, was what we asked in our RED LED compo. Smart and slick came in by the ton with the usual barrage of entries. Some were pretty good as it happens, loads about another Kelly's socks too. But the overall winner was Don Homer of Halesowen West Midlands. Twenty-five runners-up each receive a copy of Red L.E.D. but you'll want to hear the joke first:

I'm afraid to say Mike Pattenden is spoiled.

"How dare you," said Eugene.

"Mike is not spoiled."

"Have it your own way, but at least come and see what the steamroller's done to him!"

WEIRDEST WINNERS

If you can cast your mind back to those halcyon days of September you might remember the California Games compo where we asked you to name the sport belonging to the move. Well S B Wood of Carlton, Goole came up with the correct answers to win the complete Games Kit of a surfboard, roller skates, BMX, frisbee etc. Ten runners up will each receive T-shirts and copies of the game: Andrew Haughton, Hornchurch, Essex; Phillip Miller, North Yorkshire; Mark Winter, Maidstone, Kent; Neil Reace, Chorley, Lancs; Matt Lowe, Little Neston, South Wirral; Paul Bacon, Stonebroom, Derby; Mark Herbert, Syston, Leicesters; Simon James, Marlow Bottom, Bucks; John Sparks, Whitnash, Leamington Spa; Robert Webb, High Wycombe, Bucks.

KEEPING UP WITH THE JONESES

A year's supply of US Gold games, for nothing. Wasn't all the excitement in games coming out in the next twelve months this was a great prize. And that's not mentioning all the games not yet announced or even conceived. The runners up also do well out of the compo with a free copy of Indiana Jones to add to their collection.

We asked you to come up with a name for the new lady Jim the winning title of 'Indiana Jones and the City of the Cellibabe Monks' (!) was sent in by Paul Thomas from St Helier, Jersey. (Who judged this?!) Ed With the hundreds and hundreds of titles to decide from choosing the twenty-five runners up was no cake with titles like 'A day out on Sahara Beach with the Joneses' either. Still we did it had here they are: Arun Malhotra, Wembley, Middx; Ralph Currie, Kincardinshire, Scotland; Richard Haynes, Camberley, Surrey; Dennis Sherwood, Chislehurst, Surrey; Brent Patterson, Criefield, Simon Barbas, Luton; S Ward, Sutton Coldfield, West Midlands; Anthony Lave, Stockton, Cleveland; Joe Talbot, Swindon, Wilts; Nick Gianferri, Altrincham, Cheshire; James H Clerk, Glasgow; Trevor Fox, Theford, Norfolk; Gavin Twigg, Sutton Coldfield, West Midlands; M Clary, Redditch, Worcs; F Viney, Caterham, Surrey; Gerald McLaughlin, Glencolville, Co. Down; Lew Fellows, Birmingham; Mike Gordon, Bolton; Fred Hurry-Smith, London; J Cope, Stone-on-Trent, Staffs.

OURNUT!

Just for a tease we asked you to work out what Ournut was. And you all said Ournut. (Fact: this is the first CU Compo no-one got wrong) So out of the hat we picked John Jones from Hastings, East Sussex, who was a morning with an Afterburner machine. Just him and a mate. And after that lunch with the CU crew, what a lucky chap (they haven't zoned us out. Ed). We fancy eating zeees eyes pickled in bats blood served with a side dish of centipede marinated in cochrack oil. What about you lads?

THE NUMBER OF THE BEAST

The number of the beast...

It seems that we have quite a lot of headbangers reading CU. Either that or Ivan Mladen are amazingly popular. The prizes, if you can remember, were a complete autographed set of Maiden albums, with five runners up prizes of their newest album "Some-where in time" also autographed by Bruce.

The winner of the set was Dan Ibrelius from Sweden — we take no responsibility for yeeee Dan. And the runners-up were: V Napolitano, Slough, Berks; Gareth Maybury, Burnley, Lancs; Nik Kryshchivsky, Plymouth Devon; Roy Saimi, Wolverhampton; Miss E E Hilton, Mossley, Ashton-Under-Lyne.

BANGING ME HEAD

We asked for a totally original name for a heavy metal band. We asked for the owners on an oily denim. And oily denim was about what we got. So thanks and congratulations are in order to Ian Stockton, Marc Holms and Lee Vickers. Good of you to send in such oily denim we're not sure, you were beaten by a highly original and extremely silly name "The Screamin' Armpits from Marz." Which means congratulations are in order for F Bissett from Southgate, London. Who wins a totally awesome Katan-in-a-suitcase machine. You lucky dog, you!

TAMMY'S TIPS

Resets

● I am thinking of buying a 'reset switch' so that I can save my tape games to disk. I have seen a cheap one (about £5.00) that would seem perfect. I would however like a question answered. Once I have reset the game will I be able to save it or will the program have something in it to stop anyone from copying?

Recently, though, I have spotted a cartridge (about £22.00) that claims it will copy games with no problem and will re-load at a faster speed. Some of these have other utilities including sprite disablers and Centronics interfacers all built in. The second question therefore is do these reset switches and cartridges really work and if so, is it best just to buy a reset switch on its own or to buy one of these cartridges for £20 plus?

Your help is appreciated.
N. J. Dawson, Tonbridge Wells

Just buying a reset switch is a waste of money, since you could make one for about 50p and it still wouldn't allow you to save games to disk unless they are totally unprotected. If that is the case you can just load them in and then save them to disk anyway, without having to do a reset. Of course, after doing a reset, even on a protected program, you could always spend many 'happy' hours trying to find all the bits of code in memory that make up the game and save all the chunks to disk (or just save the whole memory - bit wasteful though), but I really don't think it's worth the effort.

As for the cartridges, these are very useful if you have a large slow-loading game which you want on disk. They often include their own turbo disk load and this can give substantial speed improvements when re-loading. If you have a lot of games you want to transfer to disk for back-up and ease of loading then it may be worth while getting a cartridge, but if it's only for one or two games then you will have to weigh the cost against the advantages they offer.

Tasword

● I am writing to ask a question about the Commodore MPS 803 printer. How do you get different character sets to print out, eg. using the TASWORD 64 word processor, characters like ITALICS, CONDENSED, DOUBLE STRIKE etc. Your help would be appreciated.
S. Morris, Worcsrater

Your problem is that the printer as it stands is not capable of all these things. Some limited enhancements to the text such as double strike are possible by embedding ASCII codes into the commands sent by the WP program to the printer, but there is not much else. However a comparatively new item has been released for the 803 that will allow you to do all these things, and more. It is called PRINTKIT IV and gives you true descenders, italics, bold printing and single pass underlining. It is a hardware upgrade, fitting inside the printer, and because of this it actually speeds up the printing rate, rather than slow it down like the software conversions. The commands for the extra facilities can all be used within TASWORD and the upgrade costs £30 all inclusive. For further details contact Avon Printer Technology, Swindon House, 4 Howard Road, Southville, Bristol BS3 1QH, or tel 0272 6671 67.

Disk speeds

● I am considering buying

▲ Tammy repels another barrage of readers' queries.

a CBM 128 and I wondered what is the speed difference between the 1570 and 1571 Disc Drives and also the speed difference between the 1541 and the 1571. I also wondered if a 1541 and a disc turbo would be better than a 1570/1571, and what is the best disc turbo?

J. Taylor, Huddersfield

There is no speed difference at all between the 1570 and the 1571, the difference is one of capacity. The 1570 is a single sided drive giving 170 kbytes, while the 1571 is a double sided drive giving 340 kbytes. Both of these drives are designed for fast use with the CBM 128. The 1541 on the other hand is a slow drive by comparison and is designed for use with the 64 (although it will work quite happily with the 128).

As for disc turbos, these are intended to make the best of a bad job all the 1541 with the CBM 64 and one's a slight compromise between speed and total compatibility with regards to the software that can be loaded at the higher speed. Also, a 1541 plus a decent turbo system will cost you more than a 1570. For value for money, and if you don't really need 340 kbytes at the same time, go for the 1570.

Light bulb

● I have a few questions to ask you.
(1) I can light a bulb by connecting it to pin 7 and to pin 8, but I want to know a program that when I press 'F' it will flash and if I press 'F' again it will turn off and if I press 'L' it will light up. By the way I connect the bulb to a joystick port and I don't mind which joystick port I have to use. Also I want to know how to restore a "NEW'ED" program.
(2) I would like to know a program to change error messages, start up messages and Basic instructions.
(3) Last but not least, I would like to know how a reset switch for pakes works and how can I have the same effect with wires. I tried to connect pins 1 and 3 of the user port but that does a cold start. Please help me. Thank you!
*Majed Sabir,

I know it is fun to experiment with your sound signals generated on other devices with the sound generated by the SID chip. For example you could control a tape recorder to give language lessons through the TV speaker, with the volume etc controlled by the computer. You could also have a game using two computers linked together in different rooms where you could each hear the sound effects from the other computer as well as your own. The audio input can be fed through the filters as well to give extra effects.

One thing you must ensure is that the electrical input to the audio line is correct otherwise you could cause damage to the SID chip. The input impedance is approximately 100 kΩ, with an input signal level of not greater than 3 volts peak to peak on a 6 volt reference level. You may also require AC-coupling capacitors to avoid interference. If all this is double-dutch then I would recommend you proceed with extreme caution before connecting anything to the audio-in line, otherwise try inputting sound from a mic, or a guitar etc.

FL is the flag for what to flash (1-border; 2-screen; 3-both. Chris Ward, Northampton

There is nothing wrong with your flashing program, except that you cannot just load a program while running it. The LOAD routine has to work to a precisely timed sequence, which is why the screen is normally disabled when loading is taking place. Diverting the interrupt, or doing anything else which changes the timing is guaranteed to give problems when trying to use the built-in loader.

The way the software houses do it is to write their own loader routine as well so that they control the timing within the code. I'm afraid that writing a routine to flash the screen is the relatively easy bit, writing a loader/saver routine is a little more complicated. If you want to disassemble the ROM listing, the LOAD PROGRAM routine starts at F49E and ends of F5AE.

Pen problem

● We have a Plus/4 Computer for which we bought a 1520 Printer. We can't get the pens for the printer locally. Can you suggest how I can get the pens? We use the printer for our bills as my husband has his own business. We also do our V.A.T. returns on it. The pens are urgently needed. Help.

Ginny Hobbs, Gillingham

computer, but you should be extremely careful before connecting things like light bulbs to ANY port. Getting it wrong can be a very expensive business! You control the voltage to pins 7 and 8 on the joystick ports because pin 7 is connected directly to +5v and pin 8 is connected to 0v, in other words they act just like the contacts on a battery. The problem is that the current is limited to 50mA, which will be exceeded at the moment of initial connection of a 6v bulb. DO NOT ATTEMPT TO CONNECT THE BULB TO ANY OTHER PINS OR YOU COULD DAMAGE THE COMPUTER.

As for changing the BASIC error messages, this involves copying the BASIC ROM into RAM and then you can alter whatever you like. I don't have room here to give you a program to do all you want, but I recommend you buy one of the reference books such as Raeto West's Programming the Commodore 64 if you want to try all those things out for yourself.

I assume by a 'reset switch for POKES' you mean one of the 'freeze' cartridges that allow you to break into running programs to make changes or save them. The way they work is to divert the interrupts and they can thus effectively stop the computer at any time, running their own program before returning control to the normal operating system again. Because this is all done in software, there is no simple way to reproduce the effect with wires. You are correct when you say that connecting pins 1 & 3 gives a cold start, but even that does not destroy m/code programs. In fact it is possible to recover even a BASIC program after a cold start, since it is only the pointers that are reset. A reference book is obviously a must for you since that can explain all these things in much more detail than I have room for here.

Experimental sound

● I've been doing some sound-experiments on the C-64, and now I'm just wandering: How do you read the signals coming from the "audio in" plug? I'd be pleased if you would tell me. Dag Edwardsen, Hønefoss, Norway

As far as I am aware there is no way to 'read' the signals coming into the audio in pin on the audio/video socket. What the input is for is to enable you to mix

TIPS

If you can't get the pens from your local Commodore dealer then try your local Tandy dealer. Tandy do a plotter which uses identical pens and they are also cheaper than the Commodore pens. Your nearest Tandy centre will be O&J House on the Upper Shaftsbury Road, Blandford (tel. Blandford 53737). Other Tandy shops near you are POOLE (86 High St, BOURNEMOUTH (132 Commercial Road) and BATH (3 The Mall).

Wrong number

I have written a telephone program which searches for a phone number which corresponds with the users' name input, but I would also like to include a section where the user enters a name and its corresponding number and then the information is saved on the previous telephone number cassette in data statements. I would be very happy if you could help me. (I am not writing in machine-code). Also which is better to buy—a 1541 disk drive for £199.00 or a 1570 double disk drive also for £199.00? I would be glad if you could help me with this information and I am looking forward to your reply.
A. Ripoli, Herts

What you are proposing is not impossible, but it is extremely inefficient, since you effectively have to retrace the entire program every time you add one name. What you should be doing is to store the names and addresses in a data file which you then read into an array in the program. This way, the data only takes up space once, as array elements, but if you store it as data statements then you are storing it twice; once as a "string" in the program and again as string variables (or in an array) in order to use it in the program. The way to save and load data into a program is shown in the small example at the end. By using a separate tape you can add as many names as the computer can hold in memory

As for a disk drive, you don't say which computer you have. If it's 64 then the 1541 (or 1541C) is the correct drive, although the Excelsior— from Eversham Micros is also designed for the 64 and only costs £160. If you have a 128 then get the 1570 since it is much faster than the 1541. But only when used with the 128. The 1570, by the way, is only a single-sided drive with the some 170 kbytes capacity so the 1541. It is the 1571 that is the double-sided drive for the 128.

Student

I am a student currently doing computer studies and have found that the 64 is not good enough for this course, therefore I wish to upgrade to the Amiga now that the price has been reduced. Where I live there are no stores that stock the Amiga, so could you please tell me what languages can be used on this machine and whether I need a cartridge in order to use assembly language.
J. Boyce, Margate, Kent

You have a very wide choice of languages for the Amiga. The following are all available right now, although I have put the prices in brackets just to show you getting too excited—MCC Pascal £90, UCSD Pascal £n/k, Lotus C (E130), TDI Modula-2 (£99 or £149), Cambridge USP (£150), A/C Fortran (£n/k), alternative BASIC (£70-£100) and APL 68000 (£230). There are also a number of assembler programs available for the Amiga DEVFAC (£60), Macro Assembler by Melacom (£70) and a rather up-market one called K. Seko from Kumo (£80). There are no cartridges for the Amiga, at least not for software, so everything is loaded in from disk. However, the disks are extremely fast compared to the 1541 so it isn't quite the pain it can be on the 64 when an m/code program "bombs" the computer and you have to reload the monitor from disk.

Printer problem

I currently have a CBM 64 and an MPS 803 printer and I am thinking of buying an Amiga 500. Can I still use the 803 printer or will I have to buy a new printer to use with the Amiga? If I can use the MPS 803 will I need an interface or will it just plug in like the 64?
R Fields, Colehill, Devon

Until very recently I would have said you can't use any of the Commodore Serial IEEE printers with the Amiga. However, TRILOGIC have just come up with a cable and a cartridge for the 64 which will allow you to connect an Amiga to your printer through the 64, giving you the added advantage of a printer buffer by using the 64's RAM memory. The complete package costs £39.95 and it should work with any of the Commodore printers, both dot-matrix and daisy-wheel, although I haven't tried it personally. For further details contact TRILOGIC, Unit 1, 253 New Works Road, Low Moor, Bradford, BD12 0QP, or telephone 0274 691115.

Resolution

I own a Commodore C16 + 64k and I am just starting to write short machine code routines. Would it be possible for me to program a graphic resolution of 540 x 400 in two colours or just 320 x 200 with perhaps 16 or 4 colours instead of a boring 2 as supplied by Commodore.
Ian Fidler, Hemel Hempstead

Unfortunately you are stuck with what is basically a 40 column screen which means the maximum resolution you can use is 40 x 8 pixels horizontally (320) by 25 x 8 pixels vertically (200). Even something as powerful as the Amiga is limited to 640 x 200 without going into the 'interface' mode, with its unfortunate 'flicker' effect, to get 640 x 400.

Secondly, you have a problem with the total memory that can be occupied by the screen. With 320 x 200 you are using nearly 8 kbytes of RAM, i.e. half the normal memory of a C16 with each pixel being either ON or OFF thus representing one of two possible colours. There is a way of getting more than 2 colours on the 'hi-res' screen, by using multi-colour mode. However, this has the effect of reducing the effective horizontal resolution to 160 since it now needs 2 bits per pixel to represent one of 4 possible colours on the screen. This means that your objects/drawings have to consist of 'pairs' of pixels, rather than single pixels, in order to still cover the full screen width.

Collision

I own a C16 computer and when I am trying to create a game with moving graphics in basic I always get stuck at the same part of the program. The part of the program is the part when the computer has to think about whether it has been hit or not. Could you tell me how to make the spaceships etc. sensitive so that when I hit the spaceship in a game it blows up and so that it doesn't when I miss it?
Phillip Bexon, Shepshead, Leics

There is basically nothing special about "hitting" graphics characters on the screen. Unlike sprites on the 64, or even better the 128, which can register a "collision" with another object, normal characters on the C16 (even ones you have created yourself) have no special properties in this respect. Rather than the computer deciding whether or not the 'spaceship' has been hit, it is up to you, the programmer, to detect the fact and carry out some action. The simple way to do it is to carry out a test within the program so that when the 'bullet' location equals any part of the 'spaceship' location (since the UDG could be greater than one character) then a collision has occurred and the program must branch to a 'hit' routine.

The test involves PEEKing the screen location which the 'bullet' is about to occupy and seeing if it contains, for example, ASCII 32 (space) or some other value which represents part of a 'spaceship'. If it is a space then carry on, else you have detected a 'hit'. This test must be included inside the movement loop(s) such that the test is done for each new position of the 'bullet'. You will appreciate that this imposes a considerable delay on the speed of program execution, which is why movement and collision detection is often done in m/code. However, it can be done in BASIC so give it a try.
